Killer Tornado Takes 35 Lives In Kansas City

At Least 230 Persons Hurt When Storm Hits New Suburb

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — A savage tornado, the worst of the year, roared out of Kansas and into two suburban Kansas City subdivisions Monday night, spreading death and destruction.

The twister left at least 35 dead, many of them still unidentified today, and 230 injured.

Martial law was declared and soldiers patrolled the ravaged areas, looking for more bodies. Police said that with the great amount of destruction, there could be "many more" bodies still in the wreckage.

The tornado cut a 75-mile swath across Kansas, killing six in that state, before it hopped over the state line and boiled into Hickman Mills and Ruskin Heights, two adjoining subdivisions just south and east of Kansas City. The death toll in those areas was 28. Another man died at Martin City, a small town south and west of Kansas City on the Kansas border.

Issue New Warnings

Heavy equipment moved in today to clear the wreckage of an almost new shopping center, high school and church that were demolished at Ruskin Heights. In the meantime, the Weather Bureau issued new warnings of possible tornadoes for extreme southeast Missouri and northeastern Arkansas.

The tornado was by far the worst of many that have plagued the Midwest and Southwest this year. A tornado that ripped Dallas, Tex., on April 2 killed 10 and caused considerable less property damage. Another tornado killed 19 persons last Wednesday at Silverton, Tex.

United Press photographer Jerry McNeill of Dallas, who witnessed the tornado there and flew here Monday night to photograph the one here, said the Dallas tornado "was merely a baby compared to this."

"The Dallas tornado skipped through sparsely populated areas," Mc Neill said. "this one was more thorough. And while the path was only five miles long, this tornado caused much more destruction."

500 Homes Destroyed

Police and Red Cross officials estimated 500 homes destroyed. Families were separated and efforts were being made to set up an emergency clearance headquarters to find the missing—and to unite families.

Fears that many persons were trapped when the new brick Presbyterian church collapsed were dispelled by Harry Brenner, an elder of the church, who said a group of about 60 persons huddled in the basement—and were saved when the floor kept the falling bricks from crushing them.

One man, Harry Woodling, 34, said he and his wife and three children attempted to reach the church as the storm hit "but we were too late."

"We were about 50 yards from the building when the wind hit," Woodling said. "Our car took off into the sky and I was thrown to the ground. The children disappeared but my wife was only about 25 yards away when it was all over."

Woodling was taken to a hospital, where many of the wounded waited in line for treatment.

Seniors Attend Funeral for Joseph Garofalo

Members of the Monessen High School senior class were dismissed from classes this morning to attend the funeral of a classmate, Joseph D. Garofalo, Jr., 17, who died Friday morning of injuries received in an auto accident on Rt. 71.

The Garofalo youth was to have graduated with the Class of 1957 on May 29.

He died of head and internal injuries suffered about 1 a. m. Friday when the car in which he was riding crashed into an embankment, overturned and spilled Garofalo and a fellow classmate, Charles David Dow, 17, onto the highway.

Dow, the driver of the MG sports roadster is in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital in "good" condition with head, shoulder and back injuries.

Garofalo was buried in Grandview cemetery here.

Freeport Bridge Is Closed by State as Unsafe

FREEPORT, Pa. (UP) — The heavily traveled Freeport Bridge across the Allegheny River was closed by the state Highways Department Monday night as unsafe.

Department engineers inspected the bridge late Monday and found it had shifted four inches on the Freeport side. Several upper steel trusses had been broken.

State police from the New Kensington barracks set up barricades at both ends of the span and posted watchmen.

Freeport is in Armstrong County, almost at the juncture with Butler, Allegheny and Westmoreland counties.

The bridge carries Route 356 into Freeport. Route 28, the direct route from Pittsburgh to Freeport, junctions with Route 356 at the bridge. Through traffic on Route 28 was not affected.

Allenport Fares To Be Increased

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Trunk Bus Line, Belle Vernon, will increase cash fares five cents Sunday for transporting Pittsburgh Steel Co. workers in the Fayette City, Brownstown and Allenport areas of Fayette and Washington counties.

The Public Utility Commission said the base fare would go up from 15 to 20 cents. The charge for 20-trip ticket books will be increased from $2.50 to $3.25. The bus line said the estimated $1,500 additional annual revenue was needed to meet higher operating costs.

Ike Cuts Millions in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today formally cut his foreign aid budget to $3,865,000,000 and warned Congress that any further big reduction would be a "foolhardy" gamble with American lives.

In a fighting defense of his foreign aid proposal, the President warned Congress that reduced aid spending would mean increased U. S. defense costs, heavier draft calls and renewed Communist gains abroad.

He stated his case in a special foreign aid message to Congress. Tonight he will follow it up with a radio-TV appeal to the nation, seeking public support to check the congressional drive to slash his record peacetime spending plans.

Gets Democratic Support

Key support for the President came on the eve of his message. House Democratic Leader John McCormack (Mass.) in a television interview, gave his unqualified support to the full foreign aid request.

"Whatever calculated risk we should take with our security should be taken on the side of strength and not weakness," McCormack said.

Eisenhower asked Congress for 535 million dollars less than he estimated would be needed for the program in his January budget message. The savings, he said, were made possible by improved administration, better planning with America's allies, and experience indicating less need for military spare parts.

Need Carry-Over

However, he said 500 million dollars in foreign aid spending originally anticipated for the current fiscal year ending June 30 would have to be carried over to the new fiscal year.

If Congress cuts the aid program, Cooper he warned, "it would risk not only the ultimate attainment of tremendous military savings to which we all aspire; by encouraging aggression and discouraging our friends, it would also risk forcing our own defense spending to a level far higher than it is today.

"In this kind of gamble, American lives are just as much in the balance as American dollars."

Eisenhower's aid request called for $1,900,000,000 in direct military aid, 900 million for defense support in foreign countries, and $1,065,000,000 in economic aid and administration.

Last year the President asked for $4,672,475,000. Congress appropriated $3,766,600,000.

MAYOR AND FAMILY CAST BALLOT — Mayor Hugo J. Parente, his wife and daughter, Laurie, cast their ballot in today's primary election. They voted at Monessen High School auditorium. John R. Stieska, the other mayoralty candidate, was unavailable for a picture as of noon today.

VOTING HEAVY IN MONESSEN — Monessen's 15 polling places reported heavy voting in today's primary election. This scene at the first precinct of the Third Ward was typical at most voting polls shortly after voting started at 8 a. m. Polls will be open until 9 tonight.

Leader Vetoes Silencing Bill

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has vetoed legislation which he said would silence the voices of dissenting shareholders and directors of railroad companies.

The governor said the rejected bill would have permitted the board of directors of any railroad company to adopt a resolution by a majority vote of the whole board delegating authority in the management of the business to an executive committee.

"We must never lose sight of the rights of dissenting and minority shareholders," the governor said. "Their voices must continue to be heard if we are to be assured that responsible management exists."

Three Vehicles In Accident Here

Three vehicles were involved in an accident near Ninth St. and Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, police reported today.

Robert Lancaster, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, was pulled out of a parking space when he ran into vehicles driven by Margaret Feehan, of 10 Lee Dr., Monessen, and an unidentified driver for the Hygenic Sanitary Co., of Johnstown.

Damages were minor, it was said.

Negro Vote Appeals Close City Campaign

Appeals for Monessen's Negro vote brought the pre-primary campaign to a close in Monessen last night.

Both mayoralty candidates, Hugo J. Parente, who is seeking reelection, and John R. Stieska, addressed overflow crowds. Parente spoke at a rally at Arch Tavern on Sixth St. while Stieska was making his appeal for negro votes at the Greek American Progressive Association hall on 12th St.

Principal speaker at the Parente gathering was Councilman Paul F. Jones, of Pittsburgh.

Jack Ross, veteran Third Ward political leader, called for voters in his ward to support Stieska.

Parente on Radio

Mayor Parente delivered a 15-minute appeal for votes in a radio broadcast over WESA, Charleroi, yesterday from 5:30 to 5:45 p. m.

Parente pointed out the "various achievements Monessen has made during my term of office.

"This record, my friends, is being challenged . . . by my opponent (Stieska) and his crystal gazing running mate," apparently meaning Stephen Sinchak, anti-Parente Council candidate — who have to run up with a slogan that was considered obsolete 10 years ago. The 'have-not' cries 'it is time for a change . . .' a change for what?"

"Will it be a change back to the days when we were all crammed

Mother Bear's Concern for Cubs Proves Fatal

NEW YORK (UP) — A mother bear's concern for her two cubs whose juvenile curiosity led them on a short-lived exploration of civilization proved fatal Monday.

The two 25-pound Canadian black bear cubs somehow managed to squeeze through the bars of their cage at the Prospect Park Zoo in Brooklyn late in the afternoon. A patrolman saw one of the runaway balls of fur outside the cage and the other perched on a fence. He summoned reinforcements.

Eight police men, three zoo aides and a long pole, corraled the truants and returned them to their quarters.

In her anxiety to rescue her 30-month-old offspring, the mother, a 300-pound creature, tried to climb down the steep sides of a moat in the cage. After several efforts she collapsed and died of a heart attack.

Leader Claims GOP Cuts Will Hurt Housing

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader said the Republican proposed 67 per cent slash in the Commerce Department's appropriation will cost the state its housing, slum clearance, new industry and jobs.

The Republicans recommended a cut of $8,488,500 from the Leader budget of $12,800,000 leaving the department with an allocation of $4,311,500.

Here is a breakdown of the amounts recommended by the governor with the Republican allocations in parentheses.

Salaries and expenses, $1,547,000 ($1,110,000); promoting industrial development, $475,000; ($200,000); promotion of tourist travel, $275,000 ($200,000); industrial promotion fund, $5,000,000 ($1,500,000); housing and redevelopment assistance, $5,000,000 ($1,300,000); and industrial development assistance, $500,000 (none).

The GOP-controlled Appropriations Committee said continuing appropriations of $8,000,000 each year would leave unused balances of $3,557,871 and $3,702,156 respectively for the industrial promotion fund and the housing and redevelopment assistance section. A continuing appropriation of $1,000,000 for industrial development assistance was estimated to leave that account with a balance of $752,802.

Sad-eyed St. Bernard Doomed to Execution

KENTON, Ohio (UP)—Annie, a sad-eyed St. Bernard, today appeared doomed to execution.

Charles Lease, attorney for Mrs. Joanna C. Perkins and her son, Pfc. Gene Perkins, a paratrooper stationed in Germany, said he did not know if an appeal will be filed.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor heard 15 witnesses Monday at a hearing on a petition filed by Mrs. Perkins to stop Raymond Hattery, dog warden, from doing Annie in.

Tudor refused the injunction, clearing the way for the $5 pound dog's destruction. Any appeal must be made within 10 days.

"All I've got to say is I'll take the dog and shoot her tonight if they tell me to," Hattery said. "But whether I kill her or they have a veterinary do it, she's no longer for this world."

Hattery testified that when he arrested Annie Feb. 25 at the Perkins home, he found blood and fragments of a lamb on her.

Mrs. Perkins insisted the dog was chained in a kennel at her home.

Dr. George Pleasant, a veterinary, said tests taken at the time of the dog's "arrest" the day after Emerson Fay, a farmer, found several sheep killed on his farm, showed no signs of blood or wool in her mouth.

Emerson identified Annie as one of two dogs he saw fleeing his farm after the sheep were killed. Hattery said another dog was found with Annie when she was "arrested."

Tudor, in announcing his decision, said there had been a lot of "cheap publicity" in the case and that the warden was "doing his duty on a complaint."

The sad-eyed Annie, biggest dog in town, was in the custody of Pleasant, who said he hoped the fuss would result in a new dog pound.

Bitter Battle For Mayor Is Drawing Voters

Voting was reported extremely heavy as of noon today in all of Monessen's 15 precincts.

Voters were streaming to the polls in droves in the early phase of the primary election in the City.

The bitter battle for mayor and other City offices is making the voting larger than expected. An estimated 8,000 votes is expected to be cast in the Democratic primary. The City has over 9,000 registered Democrats.

There are no Republicans running for City offices. However, most of the Democrats are conducting a write-in or sticker campaign to garner GOP votes.

Today's major battle in Monessen is between Mayor Hugo J. Parente, who is seeking a fourth term, and John R. Stieska, a druggist who is making an all-out drive to be elected to his first public office.

The mayoralty battle is turning out to be a bitter one, with both candidates predicting victory by a big margin.

Armies of Workers

Both Parente and Stieska today have armies of workers throughout the City. Caravans of cars were seen chasing all over the City as the workers were going to homes to ride voters to and from the polls.

Pro-Parente and pro-Stieska workers are having a busy day at the entrance to all voting places, button-holing every voter who approaches and practically forcing them to take literature supporting their favorite.

Parente supporters believe he will win by at least 1,200 votes. Stieska supporters are claiming about the same margin of victory.

Besides the hotly-contested mayoralty battle, equally hot contests are taking place for the two seats on City Council. Incumbents, David R. Victoria and John Molnar, both members of Parente's City Hall slate, are being opposed by John Harhai, Stephen Sinchak and William Snyder, all independent candidates.

Spielman Battle

City Treasurer John P. Spielman, seeking a second term, is having a nip-and-tuck battle with challenger Dr. G. L. Trilli, former school director. Spielman is a member of Parente's forces.

Another on the Parente slate, City Controller James Tucci is having opposition from two independent candidates, Manuel J. Monios and Kenneth McNaughton, in his bid for renomination.

Seven Democrats are seeking two nominations for school direc-

Polls Open to 9 p. m. Tonight

Monessen's 15 polling places will be open until 9 o'clock tonight.

The polls opened at 8 o'clock this morning.

Judgeship Race In County Is Causing Activity

The race for the two judicial nominations is causing the most activity at polling places throughout Westmoreland County in today's primary election. Voting is reported light to heavy.

Six candidates are seeking the two positions. All six are running on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

Edward G. Bauer is seeking his second term as common pleas judge and has as his running mate, District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, both endorsed by the Democratic courthouse organization.

Bauer is considered a shoo-in but Sculco is reported being hard-pressed by his former assistant, Joseph M. Loughran, who became an independent after splitting with the organization last December.

Two Republicans

Attorneys Robert H. Rial and Asa N. Pershing, Jr., are expected to get the two Republican nominations for judge without too much trouble. They are the only registered Republicans running.

The sixth person seeking nomination is Democrat James L. McWherter.

Two Monessen residents are seeking to be returned to office. They are Clerk of Courts Raymond Turner and Coroner Stephen D. Yonos. Turner is being opposed by Howard M. Bricker and Yonos's opponent is Pat J. Doyle.

Earl S. Kerr is unopposed for the Democratic D. A. nomination. Prothonotary Leo Sukala has no opposition in his bid for reelection.

Man Injured in One-car Accident

One man was injured in a one-car accident about 9:30 last night on Old Route 71 near Charleroi, State Police reported today.

Matthew Bilohusky, 60, Charleroi, an occupant in a car driven by his brother, Stephen, 64, same address, suffered lacerations of the forehead and was treated at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

The car, police said, ran off the highway and crashed into an embankment, throwing Matthew against the windshield.

Damage amounted to $700.

Brownsville Bridge Plans Ready July 1

HARRISBURG (UP)—A spokesman for the engineering firm designing the new seven million dollar bridge to span the Monongahela River between Brownsville and West Brownsville said today plans for the bridge will be completed by July 1.

Myron Leikaluk, chief bridge designer for the Robert W. Lowry Co., Harrisburg, said final design of the high level bridge will be submitted to the state Highways Department by the end of June. Quick approval of the plans would allow the project to be put up for competitive bidding this summer. Leikaluk said the Market St. line location also was "pretty well fixed" although it might shift 10 feet one way or another. He added that there was little leeway on location of the piers for the 150-foot level span.

The plate girder parabolic type bridge will extend from the top of the hill overlooking West Brownsville, just south of Blainesburg, to a point at Market St. and Third Ave., on the north side of Brownsville.

The bridge project is one phase of a state-federal program for relocating U.S. Route 40. Additional plans call for construction of a four-lane highway section of the route from Washington, Pa., to the West Virginia border.

Both approaches to the new span will be on a four-lane stretch extending approximately two miles east and west of Brownsville. The western approach, in Washington County, will be on the west side of Kepps' Knob and with connect with the new section now under construction of Route 40 in Centerville Borough.

The new bridge and roadway will eliminate the dangerous Route 40 hill in Brownsville, which for years has been the site of a number of runaway truck mishaps and traffic fatalities.

AFL-CIO to Lay Down Rules on Fund Abuses

WASHINGTON (UP) — AFL-CIO leaders today appeared ready to lay down new rules to safeguard union funds against the abuses charged up against Teamster President Dave Beck.

The leaders also considered plans to "guarantee democratic procedures" in unions to protect them against corrupt officers.

The AFL-CIO's 25-member Executive Council turned to the rules and other anti-corruption projects after tossing out Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president Monday.

A top item on the council's expected agenda was whether to suspend three small international unions accused — like the giant Teamsters Union — of domination by corrupt influences.

The three unions—the Laundry Workers, Distillery Workers and Allied Industrial Workers — were involved in alleged welfare fund abuses uncovered by a Senate committee in 1954-55. The three unions with their total 170,000-worker membership were warned last February to throw out officers involved in the abuses or face ouster from the AFL-CIO.

The council's action against Beck was just one of a series of developments that made life look grim for the chubby labor boss.

—The AFL-CIO action was expected to give a push to reported efforts by Teamster leaders to shove Beck out of the Teamster presidency.

—Chairman John L McClellan of the Senate Rackets Committee said he believes Beck "has committed many criminal offenses." McClellan's committee still has Beck under subpena.

—Superior Judge Lloyd W. Shorett told a grand jury at Seattle, Wash., that it is up to it to ascertain whether Beck "borrowed or stole" more than $300,000 in union funds.

—Beck is scheduled to appear before a federal grand jury June 4 at Tacoma, Wash., on a charge of income tax evasion.

Four Youngsters Killed in Crash In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UP) — Four youths were killed early today when their automobile collided head-on with a tractor-trailer on the West Virginia Turnpike, 14 miles south of here.

Three of the victims were seniors at duPont High School in Belle and a few hours earlier had received their diplomas in graduation exercises. The fourth had quit school two years ago.

Killed outright in the crash were:

Ralph E. Nutter Jr., 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Nutter, Belle

Lewis C Burroughs, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy E. Burroughs, Belle

Paul A. Bailey, 20, son of Frank Bailey of Riverside, N.J., and sister of Mrs A. V. Steele, Belle

Jerry Stone, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard H. Stone, Belle

The driver of the truck, Ray Houchin, 28, of Palestine, W.Va., was not seriously injured.

Investigating officers said the youths' car, believed to have been driven by Burroughs, sideswiped one tractor-trailer on a curve, then swerved into the path of another trailer. The car was demolished and the truck was badly damaged but did not overturn or catch fire.

Benny Hooper Comes Out of Oxygen Tent

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (UP) — Seven-year-old Benny Hooper, who survived nearly 24 hours of entrapment at the bottom of a foot wide well shaft, comes out of an oxygen tent today.

Dr. J. H. Kris, who has treated the sandy-haired, blue-eyed youngster since he tumbled into the well shaft, said a minor lung inflammation had been cleared and that Benny probably will be able to leave the hospital by the weekend.

"He's doing well and feeling well," Kris said.

Benny's temperature, which had reached 102 degrees Saturday, the day after his rescue, was back to normal by Monday.

Benny, whose plight touched off a daylong drama in the yard of his Long Island home, insisted Monday that at no time during his entombment was he scared.

"I was just mad at myself for falling in the hole," he said. "And I kept getting madder and madder as the time went on."

Steel Production Is Expected to Pick Up Again

NEW YORK (UP)—Steel production this week is expected to pick up to 86.7 per cent of capacity from actual operations of 84.2 per cent last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported.

This week's estimated rate is calculated to produce 2,220,000 tons of steel, compared with last week's production of 2,155,000 tons.

The institute reported it had overestimated production last week. Its estimate then was for 2,251,000 tons or a rate of 87.9 per cent.

A month ago the industry produced 2,269,000 tons a rate of 88.7 per cent. A year ago production was 2,206,000 tons of 97.3 per cent of the 1956 rated capacity.

Study Dismissal of Turnpike Charges

HARRISBURG (UP)—Dauphin County Court today studied petitions for dismissal of charges against three defendants indicted in the grand jury investigation of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

The petitions were filed Monday by Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, former Republican commission chairman; James F. Torrance, Export, Republican commissioner suspended by Gov. George M Leader, and Theodore Paul, Philadelphia, former legal counsel for the commission

Both Evans and Torrance were charged with criminal conspiracy and misconduct in office in connection with the alleged swindle of six million dollars of commission funds. Paul was charged with criminal conspiracy. Counsel for the men asked dismissal of the charges on the grounds they did not charge "criminally indictable" activities.

Five other defendants charged with criminal conspiracy sought court orders directing District Attorney Huette F. Dowling to spell out the charges against them in bills of particulars.

The court orders were sought by Charles W. Stickler, Johnston RD 1, president of Manu-Mine Research and Development Corp., Reading; Clayton A Lansidle, of Shillington, the firm's vice president, G. J Hudert and E. J Donnelly, former commission engineering consultants from Baltimore, Md., and Paul J. McNeill, Mercersburg, former commission finance officer.

Stickler and Landsidle were charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, while Hudert and Donnelly are accused of conspiracy. McNeill is charged with perjury and conspiracy. Landsidle also is charged with perjury.

Landsidle and McNeill also asked the right to inspect their testimony before the special grand jury which recommended the indictments.

Sudden Death Of Sailor Is Under Probe

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP) — An autopsy report was awaited today on the sudden death of a sailor Henry G G Thomas Jr., 22, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the lone witness in a recent slaying

Thomas, a seaman stationed at the U S Navy submarine base, died Sunday night at his home Police indicated they believed death was not from natural causes. They said Thomas could have been poisoned or could have taken poison.

Police Chief John J. Courtney said Thomas was a witness to the April 14 slaying of civilian John F. Walukiewicz, 48, of New London

Eddie Joe Cochrane 23, also a sailor stationed at the Navy base here, is under indictment for second degree murder in the fatal pistol-whipping of Walukiewicz

Hold Conference

BONN Germany (UP) — Gen Lauris M. Norstad, NATO supreme commander, met today with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for urgent talks on West Germany's role in the Western atomic defense plans.

'Clean' Nuclear Bombs Claimed By United States

WASHINGTON (UP) — Atomic Commissioner Willard F. Libby said today the United States has developed "clean" H-bombs which would "minimize the potential health hazards to those who are from the battlefields of nuclear war.

Libby did not say whether Russia, too, has perfected such weapons. The Russians have claimed some of their tests were staged in such a way as to cut down radioactive fallout. But a Soviet test of April 16 was particularly "dirty." Detonated in southwestern Siberia, it caused unusually heavy fallout in Japan.

In a talk to the American Society of Military Engineers, Libby said:

"We have taken the problems of radioactive fallout into consideration in our weapons development program and have developed and tested clean weapons, that is, weapons in which the amount of radioactive fallout per megaton (1 million tons TNT equivalent) of explosive power is very greatly reduced

"I believe this is a most important development because it would minimize the potential health azards to those who are far from the scene of battle if nuclear weapons are used"

Libby said again that the present rate of atomic testing by this country, Russia and Britain will not lift the level of radioacuve material in man above the so-called "maximum permissible concentration."

The storm then smashed across Johnson County killing Mrs Barbara Davis, 51, her two daughters and her father, near Spring Hill

It dipped once more at Martin City, just over the state line in Missouri, killing Lowell Atkinson, and then headed for Kansas City and Ruskin Heights.

Big Atomic Blast At Nevada This Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The biggest atomic blast ever set off within the continental United States will be held this summer on the Southern Nevada desert during the 1957 nuclear test series.

Atomic Energy Commission spokesmen refused to discuss details of the test. However, the atomic device—with an explosive violence roughly three and a half times that of the A-bombs dropped on Japan during World War II—is expected to be detonated from a platform held some 1,500 feet in the air by a helium-filled captive balloon.

The A-bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the so-called "nominal" bombs, each produced blasts equal to 20,000 tons of TNT. The "granddaddy" blast set for the new test series is expected to produce a yield of between 70 and 75 kilotons or equivalent to 70,000 to 75,000 tons of TNT. The most violent atomic explosion set off within the United States to date was the final "shot" of the 1953 test series at the southern Nevada proving grounds. A device dropped from an Air Force bomber burst in mid-air above Yucca Flat with an explosive blast of 60 kilotons or equal to 60,000 tons of TNT.

The kickoff test, involving a much smaller nuclear device with a yield of 10 kilotons or equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, was originally scheduled for May 16. However, unfavorable weather conditions have caused its postponement for six consecutive days and it is now scheduled for 5 a.m. p.d.t., Wednesday.

Explosion Hits Midget Submarine

PORTSMOUTH, N H (UP)—An explosion Monday night damaged the Navy's midget experimental submarine XI while it was docked in the naval shipyard.

Capt. Robert L Moore Jr., shipyard commander, said a portion of the 50-foot sub's bow was destroyed by the blast.

A Navy public information officer said about five feet of the bow was torn away but that the sub was able to move unaided to a floating crane which then dry-docked the craft.

Capital Reserve Funds Authorized

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M Leader has signed into law legislation authorizing townships and the state's 47 third-class cities to set up capital reserve funds for certain municipal improvements.

The funds would be used for such anticipated capital expenditures as construction, purchase or replacement of or addition to municipal buildings, equipment, machinery motor vehicles or other capital assets.

These people each won $1,000 VACATION from their Ford Dealer

Pineau Seeking Support

By UNITED PRESS

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau sought American support today for renewed French efforts to take the Suez Canal out of the "one man control" of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Pineau went to Washington for a conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and was rushing back to New York later for the Security Council meeting on the Suez.

Pineau, who already had British support in his search for an international agreement on operation of the canal, hoped to counter the strong Soviet support for Egypt.

The Soviet support took the form of charges that both the United States and France had encouraged Israel to send a ship through the canal to test the Egyptian blockade of Israeli shipping.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge planned to answer those charges this afternoon.

Russian Aid Welcomed

In Cairo Egyptian political sources welcomed Russia's aid in the Security Council as a "guarantee" the council would not adopt any resolution unfavorable to Egypt's management of the Canal.

The Israeli cabinet met in a five-hour emergency cabinet meeting which ended early today to discuss the Eisenhower Doctrine and the U.N. debate on the Suez Canal. Another meeting was called for today.

A senior Foreign Ministry spokesman reaffirmed that Israel would take no action to force Egypt's hand on the canal until Israel determines the amount of support it can expect from the big Western powers.

The cabinet meeting itself took place against a background of new reports of terrorist activities in the Negev desert. A military spokesman reported two Arab ambushes during the night near Eilat and said a road worker was killed.

ARKANSAS RIVER CHASES TULSA RESIDENTS — The scene looks peaceful, but it must be irritating as the Arkansas river flows under, around and through homes in Tulsa, Okla. The auto is window deep. Residents of this area had ample warning, and got out.

21 Seniors Sit on the Sidelines For Baccalaureate Boycotting

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UP) — Twenty-one Moundsville High School seniors, who boycotted baccalaureate services on religous grounds, were forced to watch from the sidelines Monday night as 165 classmates received diplomas at formal commencement exercises.

The 21 students, all Roman Catholics, later were handed their diplomas in the office of Principal L.D. Wiant. Among the seniors who watched the commencement exercises from the field house bleachers was valedictorian Wilson Oldaker. The valedictorian address was omitted from the program.

The Catholic students were forbidden to attend the baccalaureate services Sunday by their pastor, Msgr. Benjamin F. Farrell, because the ceremony was held in the Simpson Methodist church. He contended required attendance in a church was "a violation of the right to free exercise of religion."

Marshall County School Supt. Louis E. Potts then invoked a 25-year-old rule requiring seniors to attend baccalaureate services if they wished to participate in the commencement exercises.

Msgr. Farrell said that if the baccalaureate services had been held in the school field house, instead of the Methodist church, "we all would have attended."

Four seniors, who are Catholics, attended the church services nevertheless, and were permitted to take part in the commencement exercises.

Potts said the situation "did not crop up overnight," because the students had been advised several days in advance of the site of the baccalaureate services.

Miner's Body Is Found in Tunnel Shaft

LYKENS, Pa. (UP)—The body of David Snyder, 35, father of three who was buried by a mine cave-in for more than three days was found Monday night 400 feet down in a mine shaft.

Snyder's body was found in a gangway tunnel recessed from the main shaft of the mine which he operated with his brother, Leroy, and Mark Sponic.

Dauphin County Coroner Dr. S. E. Herrold attributed Snyder's death to suffocation. He said the victim apparently ducked onto a recessed gangway in the main shaft of the slope-type mine to escape an avalanche of coal and slag which fell while he worked in the mine last Friday morning.

Snyder's only means of escape from the niche was blocked by the falling avalanche, and he died when his oxygen gave out, the coroner said.

A five-man rescue team, headed by Leon Richter, of nearby Trevorton, and assisted by scores of volunteers, worked for more than 80 hours to free the trapped man in time.

Rescuers gave up all but hope on Friday afternoon when a rumble was heard from within the mine signalling a second cave-in. But they stubbornly went on with the back-breaking, weary task of digging debris from the main shaft and shoring it with timber.

The dead man's brother, Leroy, and his partner, Sponic, were working on the surface of the mine when the cave-in occurred. Both escaped injury.

Fighting Admiral Named by President

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has named a fighting admiral to carry out President Eisenhower's 3½-year-old program for removing secrecy tags from information that no longer need be kept secret.

The Pentagon Monday appointed Rear Adm. John (Pegleg) Hoskins as director of declassification.

Woman Freed On $3,000 Bond

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Lena Trappin, 75, Monongahela, charged with murder in the slaying of a shoemaker, was freed on $3,000 bond Monday pending a hearing on her petition to have the charge dismissed.

William Robinson, attorney for the heavy, muscular widow, contended the state had failed to produce sufficient evidence to hold her in the death of Joseph Mancuso, 65, who was found strangled in a yard seven feet from Mrs. Trappin's doorstep on May 2.

Judge David H. Weiner set June 13 for a hearing on the woman's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

New Lighting In Tunnels on 'Pike Required

HARRISBURG (UP) — Newly enacted legislation will require that lighting in the eight tunnels of the Pennsylvania Turnpike be improved and medial barriers be erected on the stretch of roadway between the Donegal and Bedford interchanges.

Gov. George M. Leader signed Senate originated legislation requiring all tunnels on the turnpike be painted white or lined with a light colored material and be equipped with lighting facilities.

A second Senate bill directs the construction of medial barriers or guard rails along some 50 miles of the superhighway between Donegal and Bedford in western Pennsylvania.

The legislation was sponsored by Sens. John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland), Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford), George N. Wade (R-Cumberland), Ernest F. Walker (R-Cambria) and J. Irving Whalley (R-Somerset).

Six Surgeons to Operate on Joined Twins

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Six surgeons at North Side Hospital will operate Thursday to separate the joined twins, James Edward and John Nelson Freeman.

Both babies, now weighing 14½ pounds, were joined at the abdomen at birth on April 27. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman, Youngstown.

Doctors reported that the twins were "progressing as well as an average baby," and that they have gained eight ounces since birth.

Dr. R. W. Rummell, medical director of the Youngstown Hospital Association, said results of X-rays indicated that the operation can be performed successfully, barring complications.

The surgeons will work in teams of three each. They will be assisted by two anesthetists, two pediatricians and the obstetrician who delivered them, plus nurses.

Boys' Brigade to March in Parades

The newly organized Boys' Brigade Drum and Bugle Corps has accepted an invitation to parade at Cokeburg on May 29 and in Webster on May 31. This organization has a membership of 35 boys and plans to compete in as many parades as possible this summer.

Any boy, musically inclined, wishing to join the group and who is between 14 and 18 years of age should contact Robert Jodon, director.

Healthy Economy Can Cut Illness

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A Pittsburgh industrialist says a healthier economic climate might reduce the rate of mental illness in Pennsylvania.

'Who knows how many mental cases are the result of inability to find work, or the inability of small businessmen to carry on a profitable business because of high taxes?" Willard F. Rockwell, board chairman of Rockwell Manufacturing Company, told the Smaller Manufacturers Council of Pittsburgh Monday night.

If the state "worked to cure its economic ills," he said, the financial burden of caring for the mentally ill in Pennsylvania might be substantially reduced.

Dave Beck's Troubles Stem from One Thing: His Love for Money

WASHINGTON (UP) — The multiple troubles of Teamsters Union President Dave Beck seem to steam from just one thing: His love for money.

There has been no public testimoney before the Senate Rackets Committee that the 62-year-old president of the nation's biggest union drank, gambled or chased blondes.

But there are volumes of testimony that on his rise from laundry driver to millionaire, he made free and easy use of union funds and the vast power of his union office to enrich himself and his clan.

The rackets committee dismissed Beck from the witness chair last week after charging that he looted union treasuries of more than $322,000.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Beck only started repaying the money when income tax investigators got on his trail in 1954. Beck testified last week he has now repaid $370,000 to the union, but insists it was all a loan —which would exempt it from income tax — and interest-free, at that.

Power of Office

Kennedy also charged and backed it up with testimony—that Beck used the power of his union office to raise much of the money which he gave back to the union, and that some of the repaid money itself came from the union.

This was only part of 52 ways in which the committee charged that Beck misused his power.

Beck's career falls in two periods: Before mid-1953, he was chairman of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters. It was in this era that he allegedly dipped with a heavy hand into the treasury of the Western Conference and of the Joint Council 28 Building Association, a Teamster subsidiary in Seattle which operates a union headquarters building.

Then he moved up to president of the international union, and two events followed in a few months: He came under income tax investigation, and signed an agreement with his successor, Frank W. Brewster, to repay the Western Conference $200,000 as a starter and to determine how much else he owed.

Union Records Destroyed

The committee and its witnesses, setting out this story, included these main charges against Beck:

—The pertinent union records had been destroyed, but bookkeeper Donald McDonald testified that through 1953, they listed no loans to Beck. Neither did union financial statements filed with the Labor Department. Beck's own applications for loans from banks and insurance companies in this period did not mention that he owed money to the union.

—Kennedy charged that Beck used Teamster funds to pay a contractor who built Beck's palatial Seattle home. The committee counsel said that later, when Beck was repaying his union, he raised $163,215 by selling the same house back to the Teamsters, who had paid for much of it in the first place. Beck still lives there, rent-free.

Pays Personal Bills

—Nathan Shefferman, a labor expert with more than 300 business clients, testified he used Teamster funds to pay $85,000 in personal bills of Beck and Dave Beck Jr.

—Raymond Fields, a former American Legion official, said that Shefferman, acting as Beck's agent, tried to set up a dummy company to make a $71,500 profit on the Legion's sale of a Washington headquarters site to the union. Kennedy said when the plan flopped, the union gave Shefferman a $12,000 bonus for beating the price down.

—Donold Hedlund, president of National Mortgages, Inc., of Seattle, testified that a relative of Beck bought one-third interest in the firm with Beck's money. Beck then used the company to invest nine million dollars worth of Teamster funds in mortgages.

—Hedlund said he, Beck and union lawyer Simond Wampold formed a brokerage company which took fees on the mortgage deals. Kennedy called this a kickback to Beck.

—Hedlund said he and Beck split a $11,500 profit by using union money to buy mortgages at a discount and sell them at par to a memorial fund for the widow of Beck's best friend. Beck was trustee of the memorial fund, which had been raised by Teamsters.

—Hedlund said he and Beck bought land and sold it at a fat profit to a contractor who developed it with union loans.

Minister Killed in Turnpike Accident

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP) —The Rev. Walter Webb, 25, Presbyterian minister at the Dodge Community House, Detroit, died in Citizens General Hospital today of head injuries suffered in an automobile collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Also injured in the crash was the Rev. Richard Symes, 26, a fellow minister at the community house. Police said the accident occurred Saturday when the car in which the ministers were riding skidded across the medial strip and struck an approaching machine.

Occupants of the other car were injured.

Sen. Langer Home From Hospital

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.), hospitalized for four months, was discharged from the naval medical center at Bethesda, Md., Monday for further recuperation at home.

A hospital spokesman said Langer, who had been ill since mid-February with pneumonia and pleurisy, spent the weekend at his home here and when he checked in at the hospital doctors decided he would not have to remain.

GOP Makes Drastic Slashes In Money Bills to Run State

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Republican leadership of the General Assembly today outlined a $1,418,244,773 General Fund budget which would force the administration of Gov. George M. Leader to reduce anticipated governmental expenditures for the next two years by $94,504,329.

The GOP leaders announced that appropriation bills to carry out their version of the budget will be introduced when the Legislature reconvenes Wednesday.

Slashes made by the GOP in proposed departmental appropriations were some of the most drastic of recent years. They ranged as high as 67 per cent of the amount requested by the governor for operation of the Commerce Department and included a cut of more than 27 million dollars in the Welfare Department budget.

Scarcely a department escaped the GOP pruning knife and in many instances the proposed cuts were far more than anticipated.

Comparisons with the budget detailed by the administration at the outset of this year's legislative sessions showed slashes of 67 per cent for the Commerce Department—$12,800,000 to $4,311,500; 55 per cent for the Mines Department—$5,900,000 to $2,630,000; 38 per cent for the Forest and Waters Department—$16,500,000 to $10,387,178; 25 per cent for the Revenue Department—$18,000,000 to $13,500,000, and 23 per cent for the Labor and Industry Department, $26,000,000 to $19,942,000.

The GOP leadership contended the proposed appropriations were still $143,273,361 more than "was expended for the same purposes in the present biennium."

Cites "Happy Medium"

"We tried to strike a happy medium between the needs of the people for governmental services of all kinds and the swelling popular demand for economy at all levels of government," Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said.

Although the Republican budget showed a cut of 10 million dollars in funds for the Public Instruction Department, the Republican leaders said the appropriations did not include an additional $30,300,000 earmarked to pay the Commonwealth's share of a mandated wage increase in teachers' salaries last year.

A GOP spokesman said that another five or six million dollars in slashes in state subsidies for hospitals and education can be expected which would bring the total reductions in the administration's budget to approximately 100 million dollars.

Wood said the amounts agreed on would enable the Commonwealth to "continue its education, health and welfare programs at the present level but will eliminate all new programs or untried experimentation."

"The committees (combined House and Senate Appropriations committees) found that it will be impossible to keep faith with our mandate not to impose new or increased taxes, if we were to agree to expand and extend governmental services in every conceivable direction, however worthwhile the aims of some of the proposed new programs may be," he said. "To do this would require a minimum of 100 million dollars in new tax revenue.

"Our program will not result in the curtailment of any essential services or functions. In many cases, big balances left in continuing appropriations will give state agencies much greater funds to spend in the coming biennium than were actually spent or committed during the current two years."

The General Appropriations will total $1,107,307,466, with the remainder of the appropriations to be introduced separately. The GOP leadership said the appropriation slashes will keep the fiscal blueprint within the $1,500,000,000 which the Republican leaders marked for their goal at the outset.

Open Minds Urged On Disarmament

THERE HAVE been some indications recently from the marathon disarmament conference in London that the United States and Russia are close to an agreement on some phase of the subject.

Harold E. Stassen, who represents the U. S. at the conference, has been called home for consultations, and his Soviet opposite number has gone to Moscow for the same purpose. Presumably these consultations will determine if an agreement is possible.

The American public has been given little information to this writing even about the general area of the immediate negotiations although there have been some hints to the effect that a version of President Eisenhower's "open skies" proposal is involved.

But regardless of what is involved, there arises immediately the question as to whether an agreement with Russia about anything at all is worth the paper it is printed on.

Admiral Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is already taking the public position that the U. S. cannot trust Russia about anything and that an agreement would therefore be both pointless and dangerous.

Americans will have no trouble seeing the Admiral's point, too. For isn't the whole record of our relations with the Soviet Union since World War II strewn with agreements broken by the Soviets? And doesn't this really account for the mess the world is in?

At the same time, dare we say to a world hungry for peace that there is no hope for peace short of a complete collapse of the Communist system? Dare we ever close the door finally to co-existence?

We do not think so. We think world opinion and our own national conscience require us to continue the search for a workable peace, even if it means indefinite toleration of Communist control over some areas of the world.

Obviously any agreement with the rulers of Russia must be entered into only with the greatest caution and with every conceivable measure for enforcing compliance. The search for peace does not require us to be fools.

This means that the American public must try to keep an open mind on the subject of disarmament. If an agreement on some phase of armament reduction and control seems practical and enforceable, let us by all means give it careful and sincere consideration.

Interludes in News

THE DRAMATIC rescue of little Benny Hooper Jr. from the bottom of a well shaft on Long Island has provided during recent days one of those interludes in the flow of human events which make the news business so unfailingly interesting.

Experienced newspaper people are quick to identify such stories. They always involve a little segment of humanity in some readily understood situation which, whether it is comic or tragic, commands universal interest right through to a dramatic climax. One did not need to know anything about the Hoopers or about their environment in order to identify oneself with their predicament. This thing could have happened to any family anywhere.

Good "human interest" stories usually have heroes, too, and this one did in the person of the Negro rescue worker who finally reached Benny and brought him out of the hole.

And what made this story especially good was the happy ending. Benny, it now seems, has suffered nothing worse than a touch of pneumonia, which is readily responding to treatment with antibiotics.

Having had this interlude, we now return to our regular diet of news — disarmament, accidents, elections, investigations. Until the next time some human beings get involved in circumstances which, while unusual, have about them that common denominator which commands instant and universal attention.

Have You Voted?

THE BUSINESS of voting ought to be first on the list of every eligible citizen today. The polls will be open until 9 p.m., and the citizen who does not cast his vote before that time has got had a complete day.

A vigorous campaign has been conducted by the candidates and their active supporters. We think it is accurate to say that, in Monessen in fact, there has been more public discussion of public matters than our people have had in many years.

But it is for this means anything unless the voter expresses a decision at his neighborhood [illegible] it does not done the campaign [illegible] much wasted breath [illegible]

Voting is a solemn duty as well as a precious privilege. It should be performed without fail.

Merry-Go-Round—

FPC Head Consults Gas Firms

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Every housewife who turns on a gas stove or an electric light bulb will be interested in the amazing confession of the man whose sworn job is to protect her on the price of natural gas and electric power.

He is Jerome Kuykendall whom Eisenhower has just reappointed chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

Mr. Pearson

When he took office, Kuykendall took a solemn oath to enforce and follow the laws of the United States, especially those governing his own agency which was set up to protect the American consumer from big power companies and the big gas producers.

Despite this, alert Congressman Torbert Macdonald of Boston discovered that Kuykendall had met secretly with Randall LeBoeuf, attorney for Consolidated Edison of New York, William Tarver of Southern Natural Gas, Birmingham, Ala.; and David Searls, counsel for Texas Natural Gas Producers. Purpose of the secret meeting was to draft a bill acceptable to both southern gas producers and northern gas distributors. The consumer was not consulted.

Equally amazing was that the meeting was held on the instruction of the White House.

"Don't Tell Anyone"

Chairman Kuykendall finally blurted out the whole story.

"What happened was this," he confessed to the persistent Congressman from Boston. "While Congress was still in session last year, and after the Harris-Fulbright bill had been voted on, Jerry Morgan at the White House contacted me and asked me if I, without saying anything to anybody, would prepare a draft of a bill which I thought would fulfill the requirements that the President had stated in his veto message."

Kuykendall then explained how he had contacted representatives of southern gas companies and northern distributors.

"Well sir," demanded Congressman Macdonald, "as I understand it the act which you administer was put in for the protection of the consuming public of the United States was it not?"

"Yes," agreed Kuykendall.

"Would you not say that your primary duty is to protect the people who use this gas, rather than those who produce it?" Macdonald asked.

Yes, and that's what I am endeavoring to do," said Kuykendall.

"I would like to ask you this question," Macdonald continued. "If during the formulation of this bill, which is now House Resolution 6790, you did not call on any consumer group to find out how they felt about this matter, and relied solely on only the three segments of the industry that had to gain from any such bill?"

"Well that is a loaded question," protested Kuykendall.

"It is not a loaded question," snapped Macdonald.

In the first place," explained Kuykendall, "I knew of no sufficient consumers groups to go to. And I wasn't going to groups I went to three individuals, and I admonished those individuals that there should be no publicity about this. There should be absolute secrecy, because I did not want any rumors started that there might be another gas bill during the last session of Congress."

"Did you consult with any lawyers from a consumer group, of the Mayors Association for one, the mayors of 200 cities of the U. S.?" pressed Macdonald.

"No, I did not," admitted the chairman of the commission which is supposed to protect consumers. "I only consulted with these people I have mentioned."

"Since the mayors of 200 large cities of the United States represent millions of people — millions of people who would be affected by this act — I cannot quite understand why you did not, and I am asking for an explanation why you did not," asked Macdonald.

The chairman of the Federal Power Commission squirmed, fidgeted gave no satisfactory answer. A further answer will be demanded of him when he comes up for confirmation before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois plans to demand that he be impeached.

NOTE — The secret discussions going between Kuykendall and the big gas boys resulted in the Harris bill now being considered in the House of Representatives.

It's a Fact—

The largest coconut in the world is the double coconut. It is about 40 pounds.

A landmark of historic Bedford, Mass., Washington's Call Tavern, was torn down to make way for a parking lot.

Each square inch of earth of the Grand Canyon is more than one and one half inches above sea level.

Congress will order a study to find out how to protect bees from insect stings.

New Arrival

From Washington—

Billy Mitchell Speaks Again

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The Air Force "re-trial" and certain reversal of the Army's court-martial condemnation of Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell — because 37 years ago he was too right too soon too belligerently about the role of combat air power — can serve a useful purpose.

Mr. Drummond

It could promote a much needed, more effective integration of the armed services which today are about as integrated as three sovereign potentates surrounded by moats.

It could further a project, once supported by one very highly placed person, which would have the effect of vastly reducing inter-service jealousies. This person was Dwight D. Eisenhower. Before he took up residence at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. he once told me that he would like to see service identity — Army, Navy, Air Force — removed entirely at the lowest and highest levels, that all privates in training and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Mitchell's Lesson

Finally, it would provide a better understanding of what the bearded, sharp-tongued, sharp-witted Billy Mitchell who had the temerity to prove — to the rage of the admirals of that day — that he could sink a battleship with a 1921 crate of an airplane.

Perhaps the [illegible] on today's "fantastic" [illegible] be left so exclusively to the military brass. It would be a helpful thing to take some of the mystery out of [illegible] military secrets can be so "secret" [illegible] so wrong about Bill Mitchell's forecast of what was just around the corner.

The reason I say that a better understanding of Gen. Mitchell now would help [illegible] that's right — [illegible] — which led Mitchell to predict the fall of Corregidor to a very considerable degree too.

I have just been rereading some of the proceedings of the Army court martial which found Gen. Mitchell guilty — and as [illegible] "prejudicial to the good of the service" and cashiered him. It is fascinating reading. He was described by those who condemned him as having no better basis for his views than "a hobby, taste upon the leaves."

And what was Bill Mitchell trying to persuade his colleagues and his country? Just look at these excerpts from the record:

Prosecutor — You say that "in future wars soldiers will invade by leaping in parachutes from airplanes." Would you care to reveal who gave you this startling information?"

Mitchell — Nobody gave it to me. It's quite obvious to anyone with the slightest foresight.

Prosecutor — Is it your actual belief that this country is vulnerable to attack from the air?

Mitchell — In the foreseeable future.

Prosecutor — Colonel Mitchell, do you have any idea of the width of the Atlantic Ocean?

Mitchell — Approximately 3 000 miles.

Prosecutor — And the Pacific Ocean?

Non-stop Across Oceans

Mitchell — I know what you are getting at and I tell you that it won't be long before airplanes will fly non-stop across both oceans.

Prosecutor — You say that "airships traveling 1 000 miles an hour will fight each other in the stratosphere." Do you have any comprehension how fast 1,000 miles an hour is?

Mitchell — Of course I do.

Prosecutor — Do you know it is faster than the speed of sound?

Mitchell — Approximately 250 miles faster than the speed of sound.

Predicted Pearl Harbor

The Prosecutor then reminded Mitchell that he foresaw an air attack on Pearl Harbor and had described in detail how it would take place. After his tea leaves and table tipping remark, he asked with heavy sarcasm: "Does your crystal ball reveal by what enemy this mythical attack will be made. By whom, Colonel, by whom?"

Mitchell — The attack will be made by the Japanese.

Then, with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, for one, dissenting, the court martial found Bill Mitchell guilty as charged.

He undoubtedly was guilty of provocative, extreme, aggressive advocacy. But he was in fact being tried by men who couldn't stomach his ideas.

Let's not do it again.

The Lighter Side—

TV Bringing About Fewer, Better Movies

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Otto Preminger, a tall, bald, blue-eyed gent who got into the theater at 17 in his native Vienna and has been going strong in it for 34 years, sipped a bit of black coffee in his hotel room, sniffed an inhaler for his cold and sounded off suavely about what TV is doing to the movies.

What was going to happen to motion pictures during, say, the next half century? Preminger an independent producer - director, gave a long sniff and opined that what is going to happen already has started happening.

"The advent of television and the growing up of TV have actually put the movies on the same position that the legitimate theater got into when the talking picture arrived," he said.

"The legitimate theater, up to then, had more than 200 productions a season on Broadway. People went to them and they were not so critical about them.

"Then—the theater became a specialty. It either had to be first rate or die. Mediocre plays were taken over by the motion pictures.

"Now TV has done the same thing to the movies. And the ones that are going to survive now, in my opinion, will have to be produced independently, individually. I was one of the first to break away from the treadmill of wholesale production in movies because I believed what was required was individual effort. No one man, no matter how great he might be, can supervise 40-or-so outstanding pictures—they would even compete with themselves.

"Now audiences only go to a picture the way they go to a play. They shop for it. They shop, and they go only if it is going to be better than what they would see on TV."

Preminger interrupted the interview long enough to answer the phone and tell a hopeful agent that a script he had been reading was a good writing job and shouldn't be hard to sell—but that it didn't ring true and he did not think it would make a good picture.

How About Jean Seberg?

He hung up and quickly answered an abrupt interview question. Was Jean Seberg, the 18-year old girl he plucked out of Marshalltown, Ia., and thrust into the title role of Shaw's "Saint Joan," maybe just a one - picture wonder with no acting future?

Nope. He has confidence. He is giving her a co-starring part in his next picture, "Bonjour Tristesse" to be made in the south of France.

Preminger, who has charted a bold course as a director-producer, arrived here just after the opening of "Saint Joan" in Paris. It will open in the United States next month. "Saint Joan" was made in England. Preminger, a U.S. citizen, said he enjoyed making his first pictures abroad but would rather work here.

Would he rather work in the theater, movies, or TV?

"What difference does it make what medium it is," he replied, "if you want to tell a story?"

Behind The News—

Gomulka Wins Fight For Independent Policy

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka has won an important victory in his fight to maintain an independent policy.

"Stalinist" Reds who had hoped to force Poland's return to the satellite status it occupied before the revolt of last October have suffered a corresponding defeat.

Mr. McCann

Gomulka won his victory at a four - day meeting of the central committee of the Polish Communist Party, or the United Workers Party as it is called officially.

The "Stalinists" entered the meeting prepared to make a strong bid to increase their strength in the central committee and thus head Poland back toward complete subservience to Soviet Russia.

The "Stalinists" failed. Instead, two strong supporters of Gomulka were elected to the committee. One "Stalinist" leader was ousted.

Three Party Factions

There are three factions in the Polish Communist Party. They are the "Stalinists," called the right wing; the "revisionists," called the left wing, and Gomulka's supporters, called "centrists."

The revisionists want Gomulka to go even farther in his defiance to Russia. In Poland's present situation, complicated as it is by serious economic troubles, they are as big a menace to Gomulka as are the "Stalinists."

At the first day's session of the central committee, it looked as if the Stalinists were going to come out on top.

Gomulka sharply attacked the revisionists. He said that party unity was absolutely necessary, and that the revisionists were the chief danger to unity. He invited any members who refused to follow the party line to turn in their membership cards or face the possibility of expulsion.

He tempered this by saying that the party line is to liberalize agricultural policy, maintain the present working agreement with the Roman Catholic Church and renounce any return to terroristic secret police rule.

Stalinists Make Bid

The "Stalinists" took heart at Gomulka's speech. They attacked his policies. They tried to force through a resolution saying that Russia must be supreme in the Communist world and condemning the Hungarian revolt which Russian troops suppressed.

Gomulka responded by a direct attack on the "Stalinists." He said that Poland, under his leadership, would not go back to subservience to Russia.

The result of the central committee was to put Gomulka in probably the strongest position he has enjoyed since he returned to his post of first secretary of the Communist Party last October.

There are still right and left wings in the party. But they have both been weakened by Gomulka's firm stand, and any hope that Soviet Russian rulers may have that Poland will revert to satellite status has been substantially diminished.

National Affairs—

Business Criticism of Eisenhower Unfair

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—There's a Tommy Manville touch to President Eisenhower's second term honeymoon with big business. Perhaps it never really was true love.

Mr. Wilson

Big business maneuvered by some smart politicians such as Thomas E. Dewey of New York put up the brains, the money and the arguments to nominate and elect Eisenhower in 1952.

They yearned for a friend in the White House after long years of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. They got their friend in. Now many of the President's former supporters believe he has stabbed them in the back with big spending and high tax policies.

Congress Also Responsible

Anyone who knows a lick about government is aware that Congress, equally with the President, is responsible for the high rate of government expenditures now proposed, and for high taxes. Businessmen do not know much about government, however, nor do most voters. So Eisenhower is getting all the discredit for the proposed budget for fiscal 1958. It isn't fair, but it's a political fact with which the administration must reckon.

The Symptoms of business disenchantment with Eisenhower were evident recently at the Hot Springs, Va., meeting of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council. More graphically, a top drawer General Motors official recently publicly rebuked Eisenhower.

W. H. Doerfler is general manager of GM's Steering Gear Division. A fortnight ago he wrote to the President protesting "your unsound monetary policies and your New Deal - inspired international WPA."

Chamber Also Miffed

WPA means Works Progress Administration, one of the multi-billion dollar relief and pump-priming projects associated with FDR's New Deal.

The United States Chamber of Commerce which loved Eisenhower in 1952 and in 1956, doesn't love him any more. The chamber tagged the President the other day as the biggest tax collector of all time, so far.

Eisenhower's is an eye-popping spending record for an administration which won office on an economy platform. There's nothing new about that, of course. Only the old timers here recall that FDR campaigned in 1932 on an economy platform. He promised to trim government costs by 25 per cent—and he stuck to it for a month or so after taking office whereafter he, as has Eisenhower, began spending other people's money at a big rate.

Mrs. Leroy Peters

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Peters At Home in McKeesport

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Peters have established a home in McKeesport following a wedding trip and their nuptial rites solemnized in St. Jerome R. C. Church of Charleroi.

Mrs. Peters before her marriage was Carole Lee Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, Charleroi R. D. 2. Her husband is the son of Ms. Stella Peters, of Fallowfield Ave., Charleroi and the late Alvin Peters. The Peters family formerly lived in Belle Vernon.

Their marriage was an event of Friday morning, April 26, and the lines of the double ring ceremony were read by the Rev. James F. McKeever, church pastor. White crash lined the aisle used by the bridal party and satin bows marked the family pews. Marie Dubinsky was at the organ.

John Cooper, brother of the bride, gave her in marriage and she chose a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace styled with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in points at the wrist. Ruffles of nylon tulle formed the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of sheer illusion was held to a seed pearl studded cap and she carried a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid and tied with bridal streamers knotted with lilies of the valley.

Andrea Koslosky, of Belle Vernon, cousin of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Her gown was of blue crystalette styled ballerina length with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline, short puffed sleeves and full skirt. She wore a matching headband and carried a bouquet of pink camelias.

Jack Peters, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cooper wore a navy blue print with matching accessories. Mrs. Peters wore a poudre blue lace dress with a white lace hat and accessories of navy. Each wore a pink carnation corsage.

After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast served at the home of the groom's mother. A tiered wedding cake centered the table.

Later in the afternoon there was a dinner at Rego's in Charleroi.

For traveling the bride selected a poudre blue suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple is now residing at 1718 Converse St., McKeesport in their newly furnished apartment.

Nancy Rusnack, A. A. Bergamasco Are Married

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Nancy Lee Rusnack, of Monessen, daughter of Mrs. Helen Rusnack, to Arthur A. Bergamasco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rebella Bergamasco, of Eldora.

They were wed in Charleroi on May 2. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Victor DelRosso, sister and brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception at the DelRosso home supplemented the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bergamasco are now residing in Eldora.

Banquet Held by C. D. of A. Members

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet was held by Monessen Court 776 Catholic Daughters of America in St. Leonard Parish Hall on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Invocation was given by the Rev M. J. O'Toole.

After dinner Grand Regent Mary Ann D'Alonzo extended a welcome and introduced Toastmaster Catherine Hornak. Greetings were extended to the mothers from District Deputy Mary McGinty, of Monongahela.

Father O'Toole was speaker and he discussed "The Example of the Blessed Mother".

Guests Introduced

The toastmaster then introduced the members, who individually presented their guests. Marcia Cenkner entertained with a humorous reading. There was a specialty sketch titled "Liberace and George" presented by Leona Hazen, president-elect of the Connellsville Business and Professional Women's Club and Margaret O'Donnell. Vocal selections were presented by Bernadette Harry, who sang "Mother Machree" and "That Old Irish Mother of Mine". She was accompanied by Florence McGinnis. The four women, who took part in the program are active members of the Connellsville Court.

Awards were presented to Mrs. Stella Mascitelli, the youngest grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Spirko, the newest mother; Mrs. T. O'Toole, mother with the largest number of children (12).

Mother Honored

The outstanding presentation was made to Mrs. Mary Tormay, who was honoed as the "Mother of the Year". She received an orchid and a Prayer Book and since May is termed the "Month of the Blessed Mother", she placed a crown on the statue of the Blessed Mother. Mrs. Tormay has been a member of St. Leonard Parish for 50 years and is the mother of three daughters. She was married at St. Leonard 37 years ago. She also has three grandchildren.

Guest award was won by Jo-Marie Stanek. Benediction was offered by Father O'Toole.

Donora Club Closes Season With Banquet

The Donora Forecast Club held a banquet last night at Johnson's restaurant. Table appointments were in a red and white color scheme and the centerpiece was a floral arrangement flanked with red and white candles. Individual nosegays of candy marked each cover.

Arrangements for the party were made by the retiring officers, Irene Louise Hilaire, Mrs. K. W. Schempp, Jr., Mrs. James McPherson, Jr., Mrs. Walter Kennedy and Mrs. E. E. Compton, Jr.

After dinner the program was highlighted by the installation of officers for next year. Installed were Mrs. Robert Moyer, president; Mrs. A. F. Miller, Jr., vice president; Mrs. James McPherson, Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Marius Reynauard, treasurer. The corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Furlong was absent. Past President Mrs. Anthony Mroczka was the installing officer.

There was a brief business meeting in which the club voted to send a boy to the Donora Lions Club summer camp. A thank you was sent to the members for their aid on the mobile X-ray unit when it visited Donora.

A report was also given on a Donora Council meeting, which was attended by club members, who extended an offer of $200 for improvements to Palmer Park.

Bridge was played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. K. William Schempp, Jr., Mrs. James Morton, Mrs. Jack Olcott, Mrs. Barry Anderson and Mrs. James MacPherson.

Mrs. Carl Haefele was welcomed as a new member of the club. Activity of the organization will be suspended until Sept. 16, when a corn roast will be held.

Kimberly Marie Kerr Feted on First Birthday

Kimberly Marie Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kerr, of Belle Vernon R. D., was honored guest at a family party at her home last night in observance of her first birthday anniversary.

The guest list included Billy Kerr, five year old brother of the guest of honor, her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yost, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Yost and children, Russell, Jr., and Patricia Ann; Betty Mazur and Cheryl Rose Mazur.

Throughout the evening pictures were taken and an informal social time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served along with a decorated birthday cake topped with a lighted candle.

Kimberly Marie was presented with many gifts.

St. Leonard Ladies Guild Plans Outing

The St. Leonard Ladies Guild met last night in the Parish Hall following the recitation of the rosary led by Rose Fitch. Mrs. Betty Keznor, president, was in charge.

Reports were given by Mrs. Marie Foster and Mrs. Keznor. The financial statement was presented by Lucy Kasper. Two new members, Norma Paterra and Winifred Persico were introduced.

Preliminary plans were discussed for a family picnic on Aug. 20, at City Park. Lucy Kasper will be chairman and the officers will comprise the committee. Evelyn Niehaus will have charge of the reservations along with Margaret Venneri and Elizabeth Hricko.

A St. Leonard Ladies Guild bowling team will be arranged by Mrs. Niehaus and all information and details will be given at the next meeting. Any member interested in joining is to contact Imogene Panetti at MU 4-4038.

Entrants Being Received For Mon Valley Pageant

Mrs. John R. McGovern is receiving entries for the Miss Mon Valley Contest to be staged June 12 at Twin Coaches and is announcing that the competition is still open. Mrs. McGovern, as entries chairman, presented two Belle Vernon girls, who are among the entrants, Frances Peroney and Carole Lou Wasicek. Several other district girls have also returned their entry blanks.

Miss Peroney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peroney, 425 May St., Belle Vernon, and will graduate from Bellmar High School with this year's class. She has had four years of special training in dancing and a year of dramatics and vocal music. She would like to attend a comptometer or business school. In the Mon Valley Pageant she will demonstrate interpretive baton twirling. While attending Bellmar, Miss Peroney has been a majorette was in the senior play, Tri-Hi-Y, Press Club, Commercial Club, played clarinet in the school band and was an honor student.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wasicek, 512 Broad Ave., Belle Vernon, Carole Lou will also graduate from Bellmar this year. She has studied piano for five years and would like to attend Penn State University. She will present a monologue to demonstrate her talent. Miss Wasicek is interested in fashion designing and is a member of the National Thespian Society, Tri-Hi-Y and College Club. At Bellmar she received the highest award for her Thespain work.

Both entrants are 5 feet, five inches tall and weigh 114 pounds.

More Can Enter

There is only a short time for valley girls to enter this beauty and talent contest, which the Monessen Junior Women's Club has been invited to conduct in conjunction with the Miss America Contest held in September in Atlantic City.

The entries committee interviews each contestant, whether suggested by an individual or organization, before the 12 finalists are selected for the June 12 event. Seven contestants have been selected thus far and five more remain to be picked.

Entrants must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on Sept. 1, 1957, and be single. They must have lived in the valley for six months prior to the local contest, although this condition is waived for college students attending a school in this area. Contestants must be high school graduates.

Donna Stofka, chairman of the awards committee, has announced that prizes include a television set, cedar chest, luggage and many other articles, which will be displayed in a local window before the pageant.

L. N. O. Members Are Entertained At Hanak Home

Mrs. Mary Hanak, of Monessen and Mrs. Isabella Miller, of Charleroi, were hostesses to members of the L.N.O. Club at the Hanak home recently.

Mrs. Clara Alberts, president, conducted the session after which games were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Marjorie Halkias, Mrs. Clara Alberts and Mrs. Edna Roberts.

Luncheon was served and plans were made for an outdoor session at Monessen Park, June 11.

Big League baseball has made a pitch to interest more feminine fans. The Commissioner's office is distributing to women's groups a book entitled: "Baseball Made Plain." Today's Sports Parade—

Vic Wertz Admits He Still Feels Polio

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Vic Wertz admitted today that he still feels the paralyzing fingers of polio but no man who made it back farther than most make it forward has plans on "at least two more years" of baseball.

The burly first baseman of the Cleveland Indians was stricken with the disease in August, 1955 and for a frightening week could move only his head. Yet Wertz rebounded back last year for one of his finest seasons.

But his comeback and his fast start this year, are even more remarkable when you consider that even now he lives in the shadow of the nightmare.

"It's all right as long as the weather is hot," he admits. "Then I don't feel any traces of it. But in cold weather I notice it in my back. When it's cool, the back muscles ache."

Enough To Finish

The fact that he is 32 doesn't worry Wertz. It is, you feel as you talk to him, the impondera-bles — such as the attack which struck him low two years ago. It is enough to finish the career of most.

And he played again. Vic had a great year in home runs last season with 32 while knocking in 105. Only a kidney infection in the year which cut down his batting average to .261.

This spring there was more trouble. He was bedded a week in bed with influenza. Right now he is nursing a set of sore ribs because he "picked up a rock" while sliding into second base at Kansas City a week ago.

Despite the aches and pains and cold weather stiffness, Vic is happy. He is doing what he likes and there is added satisfaction in his current .340 batting average.

Plans To Produce

"As long as I can play well and as long as I get a good contract, that's how long I plan to be around," Wertz analyzes. "But once I can't produce, you can bet I'm not going to stretch it out sitting on the bench."

Yet even then Vic won't turn his back on the game.

"I wouldn't want to coach," he says. "But I would like to maintain my interest in the game and stay in touch as a part-time scout or something along those lines.

"After all," he adds slowly, "baseball has been good to me."

And he it might be added, has been good to and for baseball. Inspirational figures such as Vic Wertz don't come along very often in any sport.

County Sportsmen Meet Tomorrow

A special meeting of the Board of Directors and Banquet Committee of the Westmoreland County Sportsmen League will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Youngwood VFW Club.

Edison E. Rice, president from Mt. Pleasant, has urged all directors to be present.

Palmer Wins Golf Tourney

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Arnold Palmer the professional has accomplished in his first try what Arnold Palmer the amateur failed to do in three attempts.

The touring pro from Latrobe, Pa., won the 36-hole West Penn Open title on rain - swept Fox Chapel golf course Monday with a 142, two over par and six strokes ahead of runner-up Lew Worsham of Oakmont.

As an amateur Palmer played in the Open three times. He was a runner-up in 1949 and 1950 and finished fifth in 1953.

Palmer, who has played his way up among the leaders since turning pro in the fall of 1954, had taken time out from the pro tour to make another try at winning the elusive West Penn. He left by plane after his winning performance to resume the big money trail at the Kansas City Open later this week.

First-Round Par

Palmer shot a par 70 on the first round and a 72 on the second 18. His victory was worth $150. Worsham, who played with Palmer all day, had a 73-73—148. He won $100.

Dale Andreason, Westmoreland, took $75 third money with a 73-76—149. He was tied for third with the low amateur, H S (Bud) Semple, Allegheny, who shot 75-74—149. Semple is president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association.

Three pros tied for fourth at 152 and won $40 apiece. They were Mike Pavella, Nemacolin, 75-77; Frank Bonaroti, Chartiers assistant, 76-76 and Tony Barkovich, Baldoc Hills assistant, 73-79.

Amateurs Fred Paine, Oakmont and Tommy Smith, Greensburg, also shot 152s to tie for the runner-up amateur spot.

Scally Hits Payoff

Other pro scores and prizes: Bobby Cruickshank, Chartiers, 153, $25; Chuck Scally, Scally's Range, 154, $20; Johnny Darak, Ahiquippa, Jimmy Lee, Sharon, Tony Bartolac, Penhurst, and Stanley Wiel, Ligonier, 155s, $6.25 apiece.

The other two amateur awards went to Milton Steiner, Baldoc Hills, 153, and Ronnie Schwarzel, Duquesne, 156.

Palmer's victory came over the same course on which he won the last of his five West Penn Amateur titles in 1952. He beat Frank Souchak of Oakmont.

He had two birdies and two bogies on the first 18 and three birdies and five bogies on the second 18.

Bowling Tourney Underway at CIO

The Pittsburgh Steel Bowling Tournament got underway last night with four leagues advancing.

Open Hearth blanked OH Construction. Blooming Mill Millwrights took Finishing Side Electric; Rod Mill handled Fabric and Riggers eliminated Office.

All matches were best of three affairs.

The other eight leagues will get into the fun tonight. Blast Furnace will meet No. 3 Maintenance, OH Pitt will take on Bundling Room and Welders will go against Field Fence.

All matches are being staged at the CIO alleys.

Leader Okays Sports Legislation

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov George M. Leader has signed into law legislation requiring that violators of fish and game regulations must be prosecuted before the "nearest available" magistrate.

The governor said two House bills he approved were designed to prevent any possible favoritism in the taking of cases to particular magistrates. "It (the legislation) promotes the administration of justice at the expense of possible bureaucratic tendencies," Leader said.

The legislation was sponsored by Reps. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron), James K. Davis (R-Forest), Ray C. Goodrich (R-Potter).

McBride Stops German's Streak

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight Archie McBride, the lightly regarded refrigeration machinist of Trenton, N J, who froze contender Willi Besmanoff's winning streak at 13 straight Monday night, will get another TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena on July 1.

McBride, the 13-5 underdog who won a unanimous 10-round decision over ninth-ranked Besmanoff of Germany, will be matched with Alex Miteff of Argentina for a return bout. Young Miteff outpointed 28-year-old Archie at St. Nick's on Dec. 10.

Archie, weighing 186 pounds to Besmanoff's 195, gave the 24-year-old German a thorough body beating and shook him up several times with left hooks to the face. Willi's nose began bleeding in the third round.

The three ring officials favored McBride, 8-1-1, 5-4-1, and 8-2, for his 21st win in 33 bouts, and for Besmanoff's seventh defeat in 49.

Paul Pettit Is Making Comeback

By ALEX KAHN

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — One of the great comebacks in baseball was being fashioned today by a player who never quite made it to the top—Paul Pettit, the one-time $100,000 bonus pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Paul was signed by the Pirates seven years ago as the most sensational pitching prospect ever developed in Southern California. Scouts raved about his fast ball, declaring he could throw it through a brick wall.

He had six no - hit games at Narbonne High School, three of them in a row and he averaged 18 strikeouts a game.

But after a slow start Pettit had the misfortune in 1952 of having his arm go dead while farmed out to New Orleans. The Pirates moved him from one club to another that year and the next in the hope his arm would come back. It never did.

Didn't Sit Back

The youngster might have sat back and collected $10,000 a year for the remaining years of the 10-year bonus period and call it quits.

But Pettit in 1954, when he and Pittsburgh agreed his arm would never come back, asked if he could start at the bottom as an outfielder.

He went to Salinas in the Class C California League and went to work. He played every day and drilled whenever he could at his batting and fielding. And the averages show how well he did. He batted .24, drove in 103 runs and got 20 homers.

The next step was to the Class AA Mexico City club where in 1955 Pettit was even more sensational, hitting .382. But the critics said the altitude in Mexico City helped and they were cheap hits.

But with that kind of an average, Pettit returned last season to Hollywood where he had played briefly as a pitcher with a dead arm. His batting average slumped to .26 with 10 homers.

Returns To Stars

Returning this season to the Stars, big Paul began burning up the spring training circuit, hitting .395 with five homers and 17 runs batted in during 19 games.

The skeptics still were not convinced and when the Pirates farmed the "Morning Glory" Dick Stuart to Hollywood, Pettit was benched to make room for him in the outfield. But Stuart failed to hit Coast League pitching after the first week and Manager Clyde King replaced him with Pettit.

Until last week Pettit was batting .333. He slumped a little in the series against Seattle, dropping his average to .297 but he vowed as the Stars left for Sacramento on a road swing to bring his average over .300 again.

Moore Is Warned By NBA

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—Archie Moore, growing more deliberate in his waning years, today was under a new edict to defend his title by July 7.

"If Moore fails to defend by July 7, we will take the necessary measures to vacate the light heavyweight title," Floyd Stevens, president of the National Boxing Assn. and chairman of the Michigan Boxing Commission, said Monday.

"There is no chance the deadline will be extended. If Moore doesn't defend by June 7, he will then be suspended for 30 days. As far as we're concerned, Moore is signed to meet Tony Anthony June 7 in Detroit," Stevens said.

Stevens latest threat of action against Moore, a coy 41 despite his mother's claim he is 43, came after the ancient one signed for another exhibition in Germany June 2.

Time Will Tell

Only time will tell whether Stevens' latest prodding of the light-heavy champ will stick anymore than the previous prods didn't. The NBA first told Moore to get busy on a title fight last December when he was being clobbered by Floyd Patterson for the heavy title.

Then it ordered Moore to sign by March 15 and it was announced Moore would fight Chuck Spieser April 5 in Detroit. But Moore got this postponed to June 7 and signed a "contract" witnessed by boxing officials. Tony Anthony upset the applecart by knocking out Spieser April 5, ruining an expected $200,000 gross TV-gate fight between Moore and Spieser, of Detroit.

Want Guarantee

Moore by this time was in Germany and began saying it would take a $100,000 guarantee to get him in the same ring with anybody, and especially Anthony, for the crown.

So Stevens, who knew Archie still weighed in the neighborhood of 205 pounds, 30 over the light-heavy limit, faced reality and extended the deadline to July 7.

Pirates to Hold Tryout Camp In Charleroi

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp at Charleroi, Pa. on Thursday and Friday, June 13 and 14.

The sessions will be held at Charleroi High School Stadium and will begin daily at 9:30 a. m.

The tryout sessions will be under the direction of Pirates Scouting Director, Rex Bowen, and Pirates Area Scouting Supervisor, Ray Welsh, who will be assisted by George Chacko and George Schmidt.

Players must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible to attend and no Junior American Legion player will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any of his Legion activities, and such tryout will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own baseball shoes, uniforms and gloves with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, with the understanding that all expenses will be reimbursed to those players signed to contracts with Pittsburgh organization clubs.

Valley League Scene Is Quiet

Ozarks Will Go to New Eagle Tonight If Weather Permits

The Mon Valley Baseball League was quiet in more respects than one last night.

To begin with, rain wiped out all scheduled activity.

Then too, the special league meeting at the Monessen Sport Shop failed to produce the anticipated fireworks.

Commissioner George Kuvinka had called the session to "scold" managers for stalling tactics. That was supposed to produce some repercussions.

Instead the respective team bosses agreed with the commissioner and promised to observe league rules.

Really Congenial

As a matter of fact, the meeting was so friendly that league secretary Chuck Zubritsky officially described it in his minutes as "congenial."

One important motion was adopted during the session. From now on, managers may demand a $25 "waiver fee" for releasing a player.

This sum, to be paid by the player's new team, will cover expenses involved in grooming the player prior to his release. The "waiver fee" is optional and managers need not request it.

Friendly Discussion

For the most part, the meeting was devoted to friendly discussion.

Two league games are on tap tonight. The pace-setting Monessen Ozarks will go to New Eagle while Van Voorhis will appear at Charleroi.

Rain and wet grounds may combine to wipe out both scheduled assignments, though.

City Softball League Tries Again Tonight

The City Softball League was idle again last night.

Rain has conspired to wipe out most of the softball activity so far this season.

Last night, the Ravens-MPSA game was washed away.

Tonight's tussle will pair ULBA against Italian Hall.

However unless the sun dries off the City Park diamond in a hurry that game may have to be postponed, too.

Rain Delays WPIAL Tennis; Play Tomorrow

Rain delayed the start of the WPIAL tennis eliminations yesterday.

The matches have been rescheduled for tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. on the Mt. Lebanon courts.

The semi-final contests will match Monessen against favored Latrobe and Tarentum against host Mt. Lebanon.

The four teams qualified for the post-season action by winning their respective sections.

Presumably the title matches will be staged Thursday.

On Friday and Saturday, Monessen's Joe Kurey and Jim Baker will represent the WPIAL in the state-wide doubles tournament at Penn State University.

Houtteman Sold by Tribe to Baltimore

By UNITED PRESS

Art Houtteman, who pitched only 51 innings for the Cleveland Indians since 1955, was promised plenty of work today by his new manager, Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles.

"Houtteman will be a starter with us," said the Orioles' boss. "I'll have him in the bullpen a couple of times first, though, because he hasn't done much pitching this year."

Houtteman played under Richards in 1947 when Paul was managing Buffalo in the International League. In explaining why the Orioles paid the Indians an estimated $20,000 for the tall right hander, Richards said, "two years ago he was a real good pitcher ... but he didn't pitch too much with the Indians since Herb Score came up because they have all the starters they can use and a couple of great relefers."

Two Other Deals

In two other major deals Monday, the Indians signed veteran first baseman Eddie Robinson as a free agent and the Washington Senators purchased utility infielder Rocky Bridges on waivers from the Cincinnati Redlegs

To make room for Bridges the Senators optioned shortstop Lyle Luttrell to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, while the Orioles sent southpaw pitcher Don Ferrarese to Vancouver of the same league.

A report that southpaw Harvey Haddix of the Philadelphia Phillies expects to be traded to the Cincinnati Redlegs was described as an "idle rumor" by General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phillies

However, if the Phillies are willing to trade Haddix they could also do business with the New York Giants, who are still hopeful of making a deal before the June 15 deadline.

Trade talks between the Giants and the Milwaukee Braves apparently broke down again Monday The Braves still are trying to land Red Schoendienst but they obviously haven't met the Giants' demand for a polished first-line pitcher

The Brooklyn Dodgers, meanwhile, acknowledged they still are looking for a right-handed pinch-hitter. They only have one at the moment Charley Neal.

"The man we want is an older guy, well up in his 30s, who would do nothing but pinch-hit against left-handed pitchers," said E J (Buzzy) Bavasi, Dodger vice president

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Bad Iron Play

One essential of good iron play is that you hit down and THROUGH the ball The clubhead should follow through straight along the line of flight until the arms are almost fully extended. The head must remain stationary throughout

When I am hitting my iron shots well, I finish the swing with my hands high. This means that I have hit on through the ball without rolling my hands over too soon.

Of course, the way you finish means nothing by itself A correct finish simply shows that the complete swing has been carried out correctly But experience has taught me that it is helpful to picture before hand the way I mean to finish the swing

The next time you are hitting iron shots, picture the swing in your mind as down and through the ball, carrying you to a full finish with the hands above the left ear, and the head PULLED around to a position that lets you follow the flight of the ball with your eyes.

Brooklyn's 'Nine Old Men' Are Still Very Much in NL Race

By FRED DOWN

The e "nine old men" — the fellows who won it last year — are still in the National League pennant race

That's the Brooklyn Dodgers' message today to the experts who were beginning to view the 1957 race as primarily a two-team struggle between the Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Redlegs First the Braves reeled off 12 victories in their first 14 games and then the Redlegs mounted their 12-game winning streak

All the while the Dodgers had failed to put together more than three victories in succession and there were whispers in N L. dugouts that the old champs had "had it"

So tonight they invade Cincinnati riding the crest of a four-game winning streak—their longest of the season—and fresh from two smashing victories over the St Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers walloped the Cardinals, 10-4, Monday night to sweep the two-game series they opened with Sunday's 10-3 rout

Dodgers Move Up

As a result, the Dodgers moved to within only a half-game of the second-place Braves and trail the front-running Redlegs by two and one-half

Duke Snider, Carl Furillo and Sandy Amoros walloped homers in an 11-hit Dodger attack that also included doubles by Gil Hodges, Al Walker, Jim Gilliam and Furillo Every member of the Brooklyn lineup hit safely except Don Zimmer and pitchers Don Drysdale and Clem Labine.

Drysdale went the first seven innings to win his third game without a loss. Labine, making his 13th relief appearance in 27 games, rushed in from the bullpen when the Cardinals rallied for two runs in the eighth and closed it out

A couple of old fashioned pitching duels marked the only two other games played in the majors Monday, the Washington Senators beating the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, and the Baltimore Orioles scoring a 2-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics

Ramos Wins Third

Pedro Ramos, the 22-year-old right hander from Pinar, Cuba, out-pitched Frank Lary, a 21-game winner last season, as the Senators snapped their five-game losing streak and the Tigers' four-game winning skein Ed Fitzgerald beat out an infield hit with the bases filled in the last of the ninth to drive in the winning run after the two right handers hurled shutout ball from the second inning The win was Ramos' third and the loss made Lary's record 2-5.

Connie Johnson turned in a two-hitter and stretched the Oriole pitchers string of scoreless innings to 20 as he handed the A's their fourth shutout in their last seven games Gus Triandos singled home Bob Nieman with Baltimore's first run and Tito Francona singled home the second Ned Garver suffered his third loss against two wins while Johnson won his second game compared with four defeats.

Stock Cars to Run Tonight In Washington

Billy Meyer is expected to give the 'big three' a real run for their money tonight at Washington Raceway

Meyer, freshman driver of the Spider Bartosch Special this season, has moved the No 4 up on the heels of front-running Dick Linder Ed Fiola and Herb Scott

Bartosch's new car has a big motor and should perform better on the big Washington track than anywhere else on the Pittsburgh Racing Assn. circuit.

It was much the same situation last season when with Bob Unks at the wheel the Bartosch car always gave Herb Scott a run for his money and frequently came off with the checkered flag.

Nine races are carded with the first getting underway at 8 30 p m

The PRA drivers will be running at Heidelberg, Thursday night South Park, Saturday night and Claridge, Sunday night, all at 8 30 p m

State, Dukes Eye Baseball Bids

A play-off series to determine District Two's representative in the College World Series at Omaha, Neb, will be held late next week at a site yet to be named

The district selection committee headed by Bill McCarthy, of New York University, will meet at 6 p. m. Monday at the New York Athletic Club in New York City

Among the candidates for berths in the play-off series are Penn State, Temple, Manhattan, Lafayette, Fordham, and Duquesne

For several years past, the series was held at the Allentown Eastern League baseball park but the committee is expected to choose a new site for the 1957 run-off

Here Are PRA Point Leaders

Here are the top ten PRA races in point-standings up to the moment

Dick Linder, 255; Ed Fiola, 233; Herb Scott, 230, Jack Steffen, 127; Billy Meyer, 118; Pete Panaia 103; Billy Webster, 101; Joe Viglione, 101; Buddy O'Connor 100; and Dick Swartzlander, 94.

Tunney to Be Called by IBC Attorneys

NEW YORK (UP)—Gene Tunney, the widely-respected ex-heavyweight champion, will be one of the witnesses called by the defense Wednesday in an effort to soften the final judgment of Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan against the Jim Norris boxing empire, already found guilty of monopoly

Tunney will testify as the hearings resume before Judge Ryan in the U S District Court. The hearings concern the contrasting decrees asked for inclusion in the final judgment by attorneys for the government and for the defense.

Just what the two-time conqueror of Jack Dempsey will say is conjectural, but it's certain his words will be aimed against the two major requests of the Department of Justice They are —Dissolution of the Jim Norris-Arthur Wirtz promotional association with the Madison Square Garden Corp.

—Separation of the ownership and operation of arenas by Norris and Wirtz from the promotion of title fights

Defendants

Norris and Wirtz, head men respectively in the New York and Illinois and majority stock owners and directors in the Madison Square Garden Corp, were among the defendants found guilty of monopoly in the conduct of title fights by Judge Ryan last March 8

Kenneth C Royall former secretary of the Army, and now chief Norris defense counsel, is fighting hardest against the proposed government decree that Norris and Wirtz be forced to sell their two million dollars worth of capital stock in the Garden corporation within six months, or thereafter place it with a trustee for ultimate sale

Deer Losses Held to Minimum This Winter

The Pennsylvania Game Commission reports happily that its accelerated forest cutting program, along with a comparatively mild winter, combined to hold deer losses to minimum in the recent cold months

The forest cuttings were required despite favorable weather conditions because the 1956 nut crop was generally poor throughout the State The lack of severe cold or long lying deep snow and ice over large areas for extended periods helped other forms of wildlife too

Turkeys, which are almost entirely dependent on the winter feeding program carried out by Commission personnel, sportsmen, farmers and others were provided a constant supply of corn, which kept turkey losses, also, to a minimum.

Sportsmen, interested individuals, and organizations contributed funds and a tremendous amount of corn and other foods for wild turkeys and other game species last winter. There is no record available as to the amount of feeding done by them, but they did a very commendable job of placing the needed sustenance in appropriate areas, often at great effort.

Compile Record

The Game Commission has just compiled a record of corn and other grains raised on State Game Lands or bought and placed in feeders by its employees last winter and well into the spring of 1957

Compiled in single bushels, 43,968 bushels of ear corn were purchased and placed in feeders, 13 950 bushels were harvested from State Game Lands and fed; 740 bushels of other grain were purchased and put out for wild game: and 3 642 bushels of other grains were harvested on Game Lands and distributed to feeders

Meanwhile, sportsmen and other interested persons received 24 395 bushels of grain, mostly ear corn, from the Game Commission and placed it in suitable areas for wild turkeys and other game species The total amount of ear corn and other grains, bought or raised by the Commission and distributed last winter and spring by Commission personnel and friends of wildlife, was 86 695 bushels. In the same period 76,343 pounds of salt were placed in woodland areas of the State for deer.

Conservation Lab—

The Conservation Education Laboratory for Teachers has been operating at The Pennsylvania State University for 11 years. The theory behind the Laboratory is that conservation-minded teachers can do much toward educating youngsters, and through them many adults, to the realization that conserving natural resources for coming years by the wise management of them today is important

"Much of the success of this Laboratory has been due to the generous support of many individuals and organizations over the years," says Dr John R. Rackley, Dean of the College of Education at the University He referred to the fact that each year scholarships for the course are awarded teachers by sportsmen's clubs, women's clubs conservation and patriotic organizations, industrial plants and companies and others The Game Commission, also, has contributed for years toward this worthy program.

Three Week Courses

Two three-week courses will be conducted this year, beginning June 1 and July 22 Because of the great variety of the program and the extensive field trips — some 500 miles traveled by private bus — the summer student develops a better understanding of Pennsylvania and her natural resources These trips into the field also provide opportunities for practical first-hand observations, and they enable the teacher-students to develop an understanding of the broad relationships of conservation education. Instruction in the classroom and on field trips will cover these subjects minerals, soils, water, plants, fish and animals.

Applications and information on the course are available from Dr J R Porter, Room 311, Burrowes Building, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pennsylvania

Deer Suicides—

Occasionally, a deer in Pennsylvania will leap off a cliff to its death when closely pursued, or hemmed in, by dogs.

Commenting on this, and other like incidents, Game Protector Michael Grabany, Clearfield County, reports: "Free running dogs caused the death of at least three deer in my district during April. One deer was killed by an auto when dogs chased it onto the highway. Each of the other two deer died of a broken back — the result of jumping off a 50-foot coal stripping wall in a desperate attempt to evade dogs."

The widely known cowbird gathers in large numbers in pastures to eat the insects which are disturbed by grazing cows.

Vernon Canteen Dance Saturday

There were 101 students in attendance at the Vernon Junior High School canteen dance on Saturday evening. Dancing was in the school gymnasium to recorded music with various students acting as disc jockeys.

Pam Costello and Bob Mason won the spot dance awards. Adult counselors were Mrs. Hilda Bossotta, Mrs. Madeline Geletti and Mrs. Georgia Naccarato.

Another dance will be held on Saturday of this week and this will be the final one of the year. The dances are sponsored by the Bellmarette Band Boosters, which met for a routine session last week. At the next meeting on June 11, officers for next year will be elected.

Rebekah Lodge Holds Meeting

There was a meeting of the Lady Belle Rebekah Lodge held on Thursday evening in the lodge rooms. State St. Vice Noble Grand Clara Newlin was in charge of the brief business session in the absence of the Noble Grand.

Among the routine reports given were those concerning fund raising activities by the ways and means chairmen, Mrs. Newlin and Mrs. May Mitchell.

It was reported that lodge member, Kathryn Fay, is ill. The next meeting was set for June 6.

Marion FHA Chapter Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

Johnson's restaurant in Monessen was the setting for the annual Mother-Daughter dinner held by the Marion Junior High School chapter of the Future Homemakers of America Saturday evening.

Red and white were the colors used in the table appointments. These are the national colors of the organization. Each cover was marked with a red rose and the programs were also decorated with the red rose theme.

After the invocation by Bernice Hill a steak dinner was served.

Devotions opened the program and those taking part were Catherine Elder, Donna Traversari, Arline Bolchak and Bernice Hill.

President Dolores Berna welcomed the mothers and led in the introduction of guests.

Piano solos were played by Patty Johnson and Donna Traversari. A play, "Maybe Tomorrow" was enacted by Dolores Berna, Sondra Rhodes, Barbara Marshall, Joyce Fleming and Judy Carlson.

A tribute to mothers was read by Mary Babich. Francine Gill, a former Marion chapter member, who is now president of Bellmar chapter and chairman of Region B 2, spoke briefly on the subject, "What F.H.A. Means to Me".

Vice President Catherine Elder presented pins to the ninth graders, who will be entering High School next term. Junior Homemakers degree emblems were presented by Mrs. Bernice W. Shook, the chapter adviser, to Dolores Barna and the treasurer, Sondra Rhodes, for their active participation at the chapter and regional levels. In token of appreciation, Dolores Berna presented Mrs. Lulu Rhodes, chapter mother, with a pin and mother guard and Mrs. Shook with a pin and adviser guard.

Two square dances were performed by eight of the members and a pantomime "Going to Get Along Without You" was given by Sondra Rhodes and Dolores Berna.

Mrs. Rhodes gave a short talk and then conducted the games to conclude the evening.

Local Teachers in Fayette Workshop

Miss Ruth Frost, head of the English department at Bellmar High School and Mrs. Mary Steele, Bellmar librarian, have been invited to serve as chairmen of the English and Library Workshop programs, which will be part of the 1957-58 Fayette County Teachers Institute.

The institute program has been slated for Connellsville High School next Sept. 27.

Receives Degree At Thiel College

A bachelor of arts degree will be granted to Merle Uritzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Uritzie, of Belle Vernon, in commencement ceremonies at Thiel College on Sunday, June 2.

Perryopolis Mother of 12 Honored at Surprise Party

A Perryopolis woman, mother of 12, was honored on Mother's Day when 11 of her children and their families gathered at the home of one of her daughters, Mrs. John Bachhofer, in Perryopolis for a surprise party.

Mrs. Buttermore, the former Elizabeth Wilkes, has lived in Perryopolis since she was four years old. Her husband, James, died 14 years ago.

A buffet style luncheon was served to 40 guests.

A twin angel food cake, decorated with tulips, centered the table, and was flanked by lighted tapers.

Four generations were present, Mrs. Buttermore, Mrs. Erma Bachhofer, a grandson and a great grandson.

The opening of gifts by the honored guest highlighted the party which was in the form of a surprise.

The children and families present were: Mrs. Martha B. Francis, of New Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. James Buttermore, of Centerline, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Millard Thompson, of New Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Erisman, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis Miller and children, Susan, Christy and Marney, of Hillsdale, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Hare and children Millard and Cynthia, of Fayette City; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Buttermore and children, Beth and Brad, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Buttermore, and children, Pamela and Curtis, of Perryopolis; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Buttermore and children, Janis, Johnny and Colleen, of Perryopolis; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Allison and children, Lisa and Eric, of Perryopolis, Mr. and Mrs. John Bachhofer and daughter, Libby Lee, and their son and daughter-in-law, Glenn Hough and son, Eddy, of Pittsburgh. Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and children Jamie, Sue and Mark, of Los Angeles, Calif. were unable to attend.

Mrs. Buttermore has 19 grandchildren and one great grandchild, Glen Edward Hough III, of Pittsburgh.

Movies were taken during the affair.

Beverly Kohut Is Named Art Editor

Beverly Kohut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kohut, of Wick Haven, was recently named art editor of the new term at the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry in Philadelphia.

A graduate of Perry-Lower Tyrone High School, Miss Kohut is majoring in fashion illustrations.

The Kohuts are former residents of Monessen.

Furman Praises Construction of State Shortway

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—Lt. Gov. Roy D. Furman regards construction of the Keystone Shortway from Sharon to Stroudsburg as a "means of great industrial development" and believes it "may become a reality in the not too distant future."

The state official told a group of 125 business and industrial leaders touring the Shenango Valley Sunday night that while the proposed limited access highway is a "hot potato" in other areas of the state, its construction is favored by prevailing weather conditions, the shortness of the route, and the fact that it would be serving the entire United States.

Furman pointed out that the Commonwealth's investment for the highway would be only 10 cents on the dollar with the remainder coming from federal highway funds.

The group making the tour, which was sponsored by the state Chamber of Commerce, visited the Farrell, Sharon and Wheatland areas this morning. Later in the day, it will tour the Pymatuing Lake area, Meadville and New Castle.

May Make New Offer in Threat

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Association was reported today ready to make a new wage offer to 3,000 employes in order to avert a threatened strike which would curtail milk deliveries in 11 Western Pennsylvania counties.

The new wage offer was expected Tuesday when association representatives are scheduled to meet with officers of Local 205, Milk and Ice Cream Salesmen, Drivers and Dairy Plant Employes.

Members of the local poised the strike threat last week when they rejected an association wage offer and authorized their officers to call a walkout if necessary.

No strike deadline has yet been set.

Judge's Daughter Dies in Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Deborah Marsh, 6, daughter of U.S. District Judge Rabe F. Marsh, died Sunday night in Children's Hospital after an illness of nearly four months.

Death was attributed to an incurable type of anemia. Funeral services will be held in Greensburg, where the family resides. In addition to her parents, she is survived by a brother, Rabe F. Many Coupons Collected by School Children in District

A total of 29,225 coupons were counted by members of the American Legion Auxiliary to the Brightwell-Daugherty Post and will be forwarded to the state coupon chairman for purchasing of visual aides for the advancement of education for the retarded children of Pennsylvania.

The coupons have been collected in a contest in the area served by the local Legion. The children were asked to bring all types of coupons given by various companies to stimulate trade.

The room in each school collecting the largest number of coupons was promised a party as a reward. Mrs. John Tola, chairman of the coupon committee, today announced that Miss McMillan's room from Central School; James Housemans' room, Fairhope; Mrs. Staunton Farquer's room, Marion and Mrs. Bess Welch's room Fayette City, were winners.

The parties will be held either Thursday or Friday of this week with the auxiliary furnishing the refreshments.

The purchasing of visual aids for retarded children in the schools of Pennsylvania regardless of the child's affiliation with the American Legion is the project of the state president. This year's total ranks high in contests held by the local organization.

Poppy Day to Get Started Here Thursday

Poppy Day will get under way this week with Mrs. Kate Roy, chairman, naming committees for each of the three days.

On Thursday Mrs. Roy, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Auther, Mrs. Betty Mossburg, Mrs. Barbara Rade, Mrs. Agnes Jones, Mrs. Grace Miller, Mrs. Bess Stockton and Mrs. Rose Bell will be at the Allenport plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co. to sell poppies.

The house-to-house campaign will be held Friday evening with members of the organization contacting their neighbors. Friday the collection will be made in the schools and on Saturday Girl Scouts will hold a tag day on the downtown streets.

The committee has been working on the drive for the past month and have purchased 5,000 poppies made by veterans in Pennsylvania hospitals. The profit from the sales will be used for purchasing of comforts for the men through the rehabilitation program of the local auxiliary.

Modern Rustlers

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Two young men were being held in St. Joseph County Jail today on charges of cattle rustling.

The men, Robert Redman, 22, and Gene Sanderson, 28, confessed rustling three calves from the herd of the county home, loading them in the back of their automobile and driving away.

$1,000 Presented By Woman's Club

The Fayette City Building Association has received a check for $1,000, a donation from the Fayette City Woman's Club for payment on the mortgage of the Fayette City Community Center.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh, retiring president, to J. Hilmar Renstrom, Association treasurer.

The Fayette City club has presented to the Association $3,252 in cash and spent $48 on furnishings for the Community Center kitchen. Each term the club has put away $500 to be used for building purposes. To date it has all been turned over to the Association.

Pictures in color of Germany were shown by Samuel Zonker, of Wellsburg, W. Va., to illustrate his talk at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints Saturday evening. The members of the congregation enjoyed a covered dish dinner preceeding the talk.

Announcement was made at the meeting of a dinner to be held by the Woman's Department of the church Thursday evening at Peasant Village, at which time they will honor Mrs. Ruth Horn who will leave in July for missionary service in Holland.

GE to Build Big Electric Engines

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—General Electric Co. announced today it would construct eight giant diesel-electric locomotives for U.S. Steel Corp. to meet expanded operations at three of the steel firm's plants.

GE said four 80-ton locomotives would be used at U.S. Steel's Gary, Ind., plant, one 80-tonner at the Duquesne, Pa., Works, and three 85-ton engines at the South Chicago Works.

Spokesmen said the locomotives would be custom fitted with narrow bodies for cramped operation at the steel plants. They also will have lower gear ratio for extra speed.

Billy Graham Says Americans Slaves to Lust

NEW YORK (UP) — Revivalist Billy Graham Monday night depicted modern Americans as slaves to "materialism, worldliness, greed and lust" and the United States as a "nation of moral cripples."

"We don't live by the golden rule, the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount," Graham said, "and as a result we have no moral strength, we are helpless."

Like a stern, modern Moses, Graham warned an audience of 16,000 in Madison Square Garden that man is destined for doom and destruction unless he is "willing to receive Jesus Christ and let him make man whole again."

Following Graham's sixth sermon in his New York Crusade, an estimated 370 of his listeners came forward to make "decisions for Christ." So far, nearly 4,000 persons have made decisions and 100,000 have attended Graham's Madison Square Garden sermons.

Beginning June 1, Graham's Saturday night sermons in the Garden will be televised nationally in competition with Perry Como and Jackie Gleason on other channels.

Oil Industry Needs Billions For Expansion

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—How do you go about raising $73,500,000,000 by 1965? That, says Sun Oil Co., is one of the biggest problems now facing America's oil industry.

The staggering sum will be necessary during the 10-year period 1956-1965 to meet demand for some 40 billion barrels of oil, or 80 per cent of all the crude oil produced in the U.S. since the first well at Titusville, Pa., 97 years ago.

Sun's comptroller, Donald P. Jones, wrote in the company's house organ, Our Sun, that savings, both of the industry and of Americans in general will be a fundamental factor in supplying future growth needs.

"If he (an oil man) cannot save enough from his own operations to meet all his needs, he must borrow from the savings of others . . . only to the extent that he gets the money will he be able to provide for the growing demand for petroleum."

Jones estimated Sun alone in the 10-year period will spend about $1,250,000,000 or more than twice as much as it spent in the previous decade.

Six Killed When Car Slams Abutment

ODESSA, Del. (UP) — Three children and three adults were killed Monday when a car in which they were riding crashed into the abutment of a bridge south of here on the DuPont Highway.

Those killed were identified by police as Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Outlaw, their three children, Shirley, 3; and twins, Cleveland Jr., and Clang, 5 months. The other adult was identified as Mrs. Isaiah Phillips. All were from New York.

Optimistic Report on Tax Cut Is Expected

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congressional tax experts predict the government will take in more tax money in fiscal 1958 than it anticipated.

If spending doesn't exceed the $71,800,000,000 estimated by President Eisenhower, that would mean a bigger surplus than the estimated $1,800,000,000.

And that could mean a tax cut.

The optimistic estimate on federal revenue came from the Joint Congressional Internal Revenue Committee. It planned to issue the estimate in a report today.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass. Monday night forecast a possible tax cut.

He said he "reasonably expects" that the budget will be cut $3,500,000,000 to $4,500,000,000.

If that much is cut, he said, "We can have a tax reduction"—probably effective Jan. 1.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights — Backers of the administration's civil rights bill aimed at getting a House vote on it early next month. McCormack predicted it would pass by a vote of from "two to two and one-half to one."

Cabaret—The Treasury Department urged Congress not to repeal the 20 per cent cabaret tax on night club goers. The department said repeal of the tax would cost the government 43 million dollars a year. But Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell called the tax "discriminatory" and urged repeal.

Leaks — The Senate Investigating Subcommittee sought to learn what laws are needed to plug leaks of profitable information from the Civil Aeronautics Board. It summoned CAB Chairman James R. Durfee to testify.

Ships—The House passed a bill that would authorize sale or loan of 49 ships to friendly foreign nations. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Finleyville Man Gets Sentence in Stab Slaying

WASHINGTON (UP) — Judge David H. Wiener sentenced James E. Lytle, 36, Finleyville, to 10 to 20 years in Western Penitentiary today for the stab slaying of a woman with whom he was living.

Wiener, who set the degree of guilt at second degree murder, recommended that Lytle be required to serve his maximum sentence. Lytle pleaded guilty to murder generally and admitted slaying Mrs. Lena Geltz, 42, when they quarreled while walking along a railroad track near Finleyville last Dec. 6.

Lytle, father of four children who was estranged from his family, surrendered following the killing and confessed, saying he "wanted to pay for it."

At a hearing two weeks ago, he testified that he and the victim quarreled because she threatened to leave him. When she drew a knife, he said, he seized it and stabbed her twice in the throat.

Youth Almost Strangles on Ping Pong Table

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Danny Lucerno, 5, almost strangled Monday when his neck caught between the sections of a collapsible ping-pong table.

The boy was unconscious when freed, but was revived and taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment.

Danny and a playmate, Mark Reed, 6, were playing on the top of the home-made ping-pong table in Mark's home when the two sections collapsed in the middle. The inner edges closed around Danny's neck and Mark's waist.

Mark's brother, Tommy, 4, summoned his mother who freed the boys.

It was believed Mark's body helped save Danny from being squeezed even tighter. Mark also was treated at the hospital.

Sid Caesar Is Felled By Tiny 'Statistic'

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Sid Caesar, a television Goliath, was felled by a tiny statistic called "cost-per-thousand."

The termination of Caesar's contract with NBC-TV was announced last week. However, the loss of his Saturday night spot, in the making since last February, had nothing to do with the worth of his show critics and people in the trade praised it almost unanimously.

William Ewald

It had nothing to do with an absence of audience—he reached between 20 and 25 million viewers each week.

Caesar was beaten by one of the uncomfortable realities of the TV business: A program must deliver an audience to the sponsor proportionate to the amount of money shelled out for the show.

ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk, Caesar's chief competitor on Saturday night, delivers a thousand homes for each commercial minute each week for $1.79, according to the latest Nielsen figures.

Caesar Far Over Average

Caesar's cost - per - thousand is a whopping $5.23, while the average TV show's cost-per-thousand is about $3.50.

Cost-per-thousand figures are the real bread and butter of the TV industry. They have been too often obscured by "ratings," which by themselves mean very little to the sponsor, ad agency or network.

Cost - per - thousand figures are reached by dividing a program's total cost (production and time charges) by the number of "thousand" homes a program reaches. This figure is then divided by the number of commercial minutes a sponsor has during the show.

Thus, a program like Caesar's which costs its sponsor about $115,000 for production alone (Lawrence Welk's show comes in at less than $20,000) would have to deliver 10 to 15 million more viewers to prove an economical buy.

Quiz shows like "The $64,000 Questions" and "Twenty One" are economical buys because their costs-per-thousand is low. So are panel shows like "What's My Line" and "I've Got A Secret." westerns like "Gunsmoke." So are successful situation comedies like "December Bride" and westerns like "Gunsmoke."

So are Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen, both of whom have production budgets $30,000 or $40,000 below Caesar's and who deliver larger audiences.

Return Looks Slim

The chances of Caesar coming back to TV with another big one-hour show, therefore, would appear slim. Caesar likes a show with "big" production values. But Caesar's bread of humor—which hinges on the spoofing of such esoterica as Japanese movies and commuting life—appeals only to a hard kernel of big city fans.

In what network statisticians call "D," "C" and "B" towns (towns with less than 30,000, 50,000 and 100,000 citizens, respectively), Caesar draws few viewers. Caesar's cost - per - thousand is doomed from the start.

CBS-TV says flatly "It is having no discussion with Caesar." ABC-TV will make a pitch to Caesar, if he'll come in on a smaller budget. This appears unlikely.

The chances are Caesar will make a movie, do night club appearances and perhaps, guest on other TV shows. He is a strange victim—of too much quality and a statistic to which the industry is forced to chain itself: Cost-per-thousand.

Many birds consume half their weight in food each day and young birds eat more than their total weight in a day.

Points to Think Over Before Taking Drink

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

This is not original, of course, but it's certainly one I believe wholeheartedly.

This philosophy is especially true in the case of alcoholism. It's a lot more difficult to cure an alcoholic than it is to prevent the disease in the first place. And, as you have heard countless times, alcoholism is a disease.

You don't become an alcoholic overnight. You just drift into it by drinking more and more and more. Alcohol is a drug. Like any drug, its prolonged use may result in a tolerance.

In such a case, a little alcohol, after a while, will no longer satisfy. To get the desired effect, you have to drink ever increasing amounts. Before you know it, you're an addict.

In a recent issue of The Catholic Digest, Dr. Eugene R. Marzullo lists six important steps in preventing alcoholism. The article, condensed from Woman's Day, is of interest to every family where there is a single person who ever drinks a cocktail.

I'd like to pass these rules on to you:

1 — Always associate drinking with solid food.

2 — Adopt good eating habits. Excess drink may rob a person of his desire for food.

3 — Don't spend more time on cocktails than on the dinner course.

4 — Be certain meals are on time, so there is no danger of drinking while waiting.

5 — Don't drink when physically tired in order to "get a lift." Instead, eat something sweet to provide a quick source of energy.

6 — Have a proper reason for taking a drink. To overcome nervousness, worry, or to forget something are not good reasons.

It's not always quite this simple, of course, but these six rules may go a long way in helping prevent development of another alcoholic.

Blue Monday, when applied to the Monday before Lent, received its name from the custom of decorating church interiors with blue hangings on that day.

Pittsburgh Symphony In Need of $85,000

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra needs before it can breathe a musical sigh of relief in the current campaign.

Reports made this week by campaign workers indicate they have raised nearly $240,000 thus far in the drive which began March 29. The campaign will officially close with a hoped for "victory meeting" in Pittsburgh's Penn-Sheraton Hotel Tuesday, May 28.

In answer to two questions by campaign workers, Symphony Society President Charles Denby announced that the 1957-58 concert season of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra is in the planning stages and will begin in the fall as scheduled. He tempered this optimistic statement with the fact that if the campaign goal of $325,000 is not met by the end of the month, the Pittsburgh Orchestra will find itself right behind the eight ball again next season, meaning that the Orchestra will start the season in the hole.

"If that happens," Denby said, "I'm afraid we'll all have to do a little extra curricular work to pick up the necessary funds to make up our budget. But I do think now that our fund campaign has every chance of success based on current reports."

He answered the second question with his optimistic appraisal of the fund campaign now in progress. But in stating that he felt the individual contributions division of the campaign "would go over the top", Denby felt that the corporate sponsor's group "probably will not meet its announced goal of $175,000."

In the break-down of the current reports of the Pittsburgh Symphony's maintenance fund campaign, Denby reported that individual contributions have accounted for $116,052; small business, $15,770; and corporate sponsors, $108,152. If the campaign is successful in realizing its announced goal, it will be for the first time in five years.

Westinghouse Gets Contract

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced today it has begun work on control equipment for the Air Force's automatic early warning radar and air defense system.

Vice president C. H. Bartlett said Westinghouse received a multi-million dollar contract from International Business Machines Corp., prime contract for the defense system, to manufacture the control equipment.

The system, known as Project SAGE (Semi Automatic Ground Environment) ties computers and other complex electronic equipment to an extensive network of radar warning systems. It reduces the human effort to a minimum in the tracking and destroying of attacking aircraft.

Rehoboth Church Mission Society Holds Meeting

The Missionary Society of Rehoboth Presbyterian Church met Thursday in the church with Esther Leeper as devotional leader.

Mrs. J. Nelson Jackaway offered a prayer for missions and a quartet from Rostraver Junior High School presented several selections.

Mary Finley read an article, "Social Education in Action" and Freda Smith gave one on "What Can We Do for Peace".

Bess Patterson was topic leader and the business meeting was in charge of Emily Cook, president. Sara Trickett gave the secretary's report and Esther Leeper the treasurer's. The latter also reported on a meeting the group attended in Donora on May 6.

Retreat will be held on July 10 at Mt. Vernon Church. A letter was read from Mrs. Grimm, of Palmer, Alaska, about the penny collection taken some time ago. It was also announced that Emily Clark, a missionary in Arizona, is still hospitalized. The nominating committee was requested to prepare a slate of officers.

The annual Memorial Day supper will be held at the church May 30.

Twenty - three were present. Hostesses were Mrs. D. N. Gilmer, Mrs. Jackaway, Mrs. George Leeper, Mrs. John Leeper, and Mrs. Wayne Leeper.

Webster PTA Meets

The Webster Parent-Teacher Association will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. for a caserole supper prior to the regular meeting.

Barbara Lambie to Graduate from Thiel

Barbara Lambie, of Webster, will receive a bachelor of science degree in commencement services at Thiel College on Sunday, June 2. Miss Lambie is completing work in physical therapy at the D. T. Watson School in Leetsdale. She is also a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Meetings Set

There will be a meeting of the committee of the Webster Community Service Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Madge Hamilton. Everyone is invited.

A meeting will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Webster Methodist Church for all those interested in the Daily Vacation Bible School which will be held June 3-14 in the church.

Free Food

Free food will be distributed Thursday from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m. in Pricedale and from 6 to 7 p. m. in Webster and Fellsburg. Persons are asked to bring their own containers.

Mr. and Mrs. James Echart and children, Jimmy and Joyce; Gwen Wood, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Echart visited with Mrs. Mae Reese, of Fairchance, over the weekend.

Civil War to Be Recreated on 100th Anniversary

WASHINGTON (UP)—A couple of long-dead generals named Jeb Stuart and Phil Sheridan must be rattling around their graves.

A bunch of Yankees and Confederates in Congress have amicably agreed to hold a four-year celebration commemorating the 100th anniversary of the battles of the Civil War—bloody battle by bloody battle.

Only a week ago the North and South were snaffling at each other again. This time it was over the merits of Gens. Robert E. Lee and George Meade, the Confederate and Union commanders at the battle of Gettysburg.

President Eisenhower and British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery had agreed that both Lee and Mead should have been sacked. The Rebel yells could be heard from Bull Run to Vicksburg.

But when a House Judiciary Subcommittee Monday held a hearing on proposals to create a commission to plan a nationwide centennial celebration of the great war's anniversary not a Rebel yell was heard.

However, there was one bit of disagreement: Who is going to pay the bill and how much?

The Confederate government obviously is in no position to pick up the check. That left the Union.

'Happy Pills' Wrong Medicine, Psychiatrist Says

CHICAGO (UP)—A noted psychiatrist says some anxiety is a necessity, and doctors who prescribe "happy pills" for its relief are "rendering their patients a disservice."

Dr. Roy J. Grinker, of Michael Reese Hospital, criticized the indiscriminate use of tranquilizing drugs at a panel session on the subject late Monday.

"This is not so much an age of anxiety," Grinker said. "It is rather an age of defense against anxiety."

He said many persons today "flee from any tension producing situation."

"When we as doctors lend ourselves to this neurotic defense against anxiety we are rendering our patients a disservice," he said.

"Frustration and anxiety are necessary for learning, growth and maturity."

Grinker, who heads the Institute for Psychiatric and Psychosomatic Research and Training at Michael Reese, said tranquilizers treat only the symptoms of emotional illness.

Their use might actually delay a patient in seeking psychiatric help in finding the cause of a serious emotional problem, he said.

No Launching Site

CHICAGO (UP)—Steve Robin, 15, of suburban Glencoe, built a 13-foot rocket in his garage, is looking for a place to launch it.

The rocket, which Robin said he thinks "will go up 5 to 30 miles," is powered with gunpowder.

Mollet Gets Assist

PARIS (UP) — A new atomic warning from Moscow gave Premier Guy Mollet an unexpected and unintentional assist today in his battle to remain in office.

The Socialist premier now is expected to win his 34th vote of confidence from the National Assembly by a narrow margin in a showdown on Mollet's highly-controversial tax increase measure.

Informed sources said that while a majority of the deputies may not agree with Mollet's basic policies they are reluctant to vote against him and thus precipitate a crisis in these critical times in France's international affairs.

Major factor weighing in Mollet's favor was Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's note which may be interpreted as an attempt to frighten France with the bugaboo of hydrogen warfare. The note suggested bilateral talks on international issues and carried a warning that a "few hydrogen bombs would [illegible]ugh to turn a large area [illegible]esert."

Bulganin es[illegible] "alarm" because France [illegible]ing American atomic [illegible] be established on French territory and warned: "It is not security to live in the midst of the atomic stores and hydrogen warheads with which Europe is being covered."

While Bulganin said his warning was not a threat, the majority of French deputies are almost certain to feel differently.
